THE EDELIAN
PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS
OF THE EDWARD DRUMMOND LIBBEY
HIGH SCHOOL OF TOLEDO OHIO~
1930

Foreword

THE EDELIAN, a volume whose golden glow of fond memories and care-free days we have attempted to portray in the rays of the setting sun of the picturesque West.

The solid, unyielding, majestic canyon shapes the plastic path of the long trail, guiding the Tenderfoot, an immature, hesitating Freshman; the Indian, a silent, steadfast Sophomore; the Cowboy, a jubilant, lively Junior; and the Prospector, a mature, dignified Senior, through the activities that reach their fullness in the years when Libbey will be but a memory.

The course to the alluring West has been arduous, fraught with all but insurmountable obstacles, but to the persistent ones who at last are entering the golden gateway, it has proved a success. May we always keep our gaze ahead upon the lofty, regal, snow-tipped mountains of noble ideals and ignore the stones and thickets which occasionally shall impede our progress. With such visions surely our travels in other days shall meet with prosperity.

Dedication

IN SPEAKING of his life among the cowboys, Theodore Roosevelt has said, "We felt the best of hardy life in our veins, and ours was the glory of work and the joy of living." The cowboy ideal of fair-mindedness, clean play, and honest consideration for others, has been one of the powerful forces in the development of American character. Especially do we expect our leaders to exemplify this ideal. At Libbey a man known for his splendid sportsmanship and his ability for real achievement is George Ninde Lawson.

Born in Michigan, Mr. Lawson received his education in Milan High School and Michigan State Normal College, from which he received the degree of Bachelor of Science. Later he attended the University of the City of Toledo, where he did graduate work.

At the end of his first year at Michigan State Normal College, he was elected to the Stoic Society, a local honorary scholastic society, and in his last year he was elected to Kappa Delta Pi, a national honorary society. During his college life he was interested in sports, especially basketball and baseball. He was one of the best college pitchers of his time and received several offers from Major League teams. He was president of his class during his Junior and Senior years.

After coming to Toledo he was appointed a member of the faculty of Woodward High School where he taught until the opening of Libbey.

As Faculty Manager of Athletics he has served our school competently and well. Together with Mr. Williams he conceived the idea of the stadium and the plans for financing it. During the building of the stadium he gave up his summer vacation to superintend it.

Our experience with him has been one of pleasure, and our admiration of his fine principles is unlimited. For his loyalty and zeal in ever promoting the name of Libbey we honor him, and it is with sincere respect that we, the Class of 1930, dedicate this Edelian to Mr. George N. Lawson.

Edward Drummond Libbey

TO HAVE lived not in one's self alone is to live always in the hearts of others. And thus we honor and revere the memory of Edward Drummond Libbey, the man for whom our school was named, and whose life is a constant inspiration to all of us.

Edward Drummond Libbey was born April 17, 1854, at Chelsea, Massachusetts, a son of William L. and Julia M. Libbey. Mr. Libbey received his education in Boston, and later attended lectures at Boston University. In the year 1880, having bought the New England Glass Company, William Libbey took his son as partner. On the death of the father in 1883 the son became sole proprietor of the business and continued it successfully. In 1888, after moving the business to Toledo, he incorporated it as The Libbey Glass Company. He was also head of The Libbey-Owens Sheet Glass Company and of the Toledo Glass Company. Mr. Libbey was married in Toledo, June 24, 1890, to Florence Scott, a daughter of Mr. Maurice A. Scott.

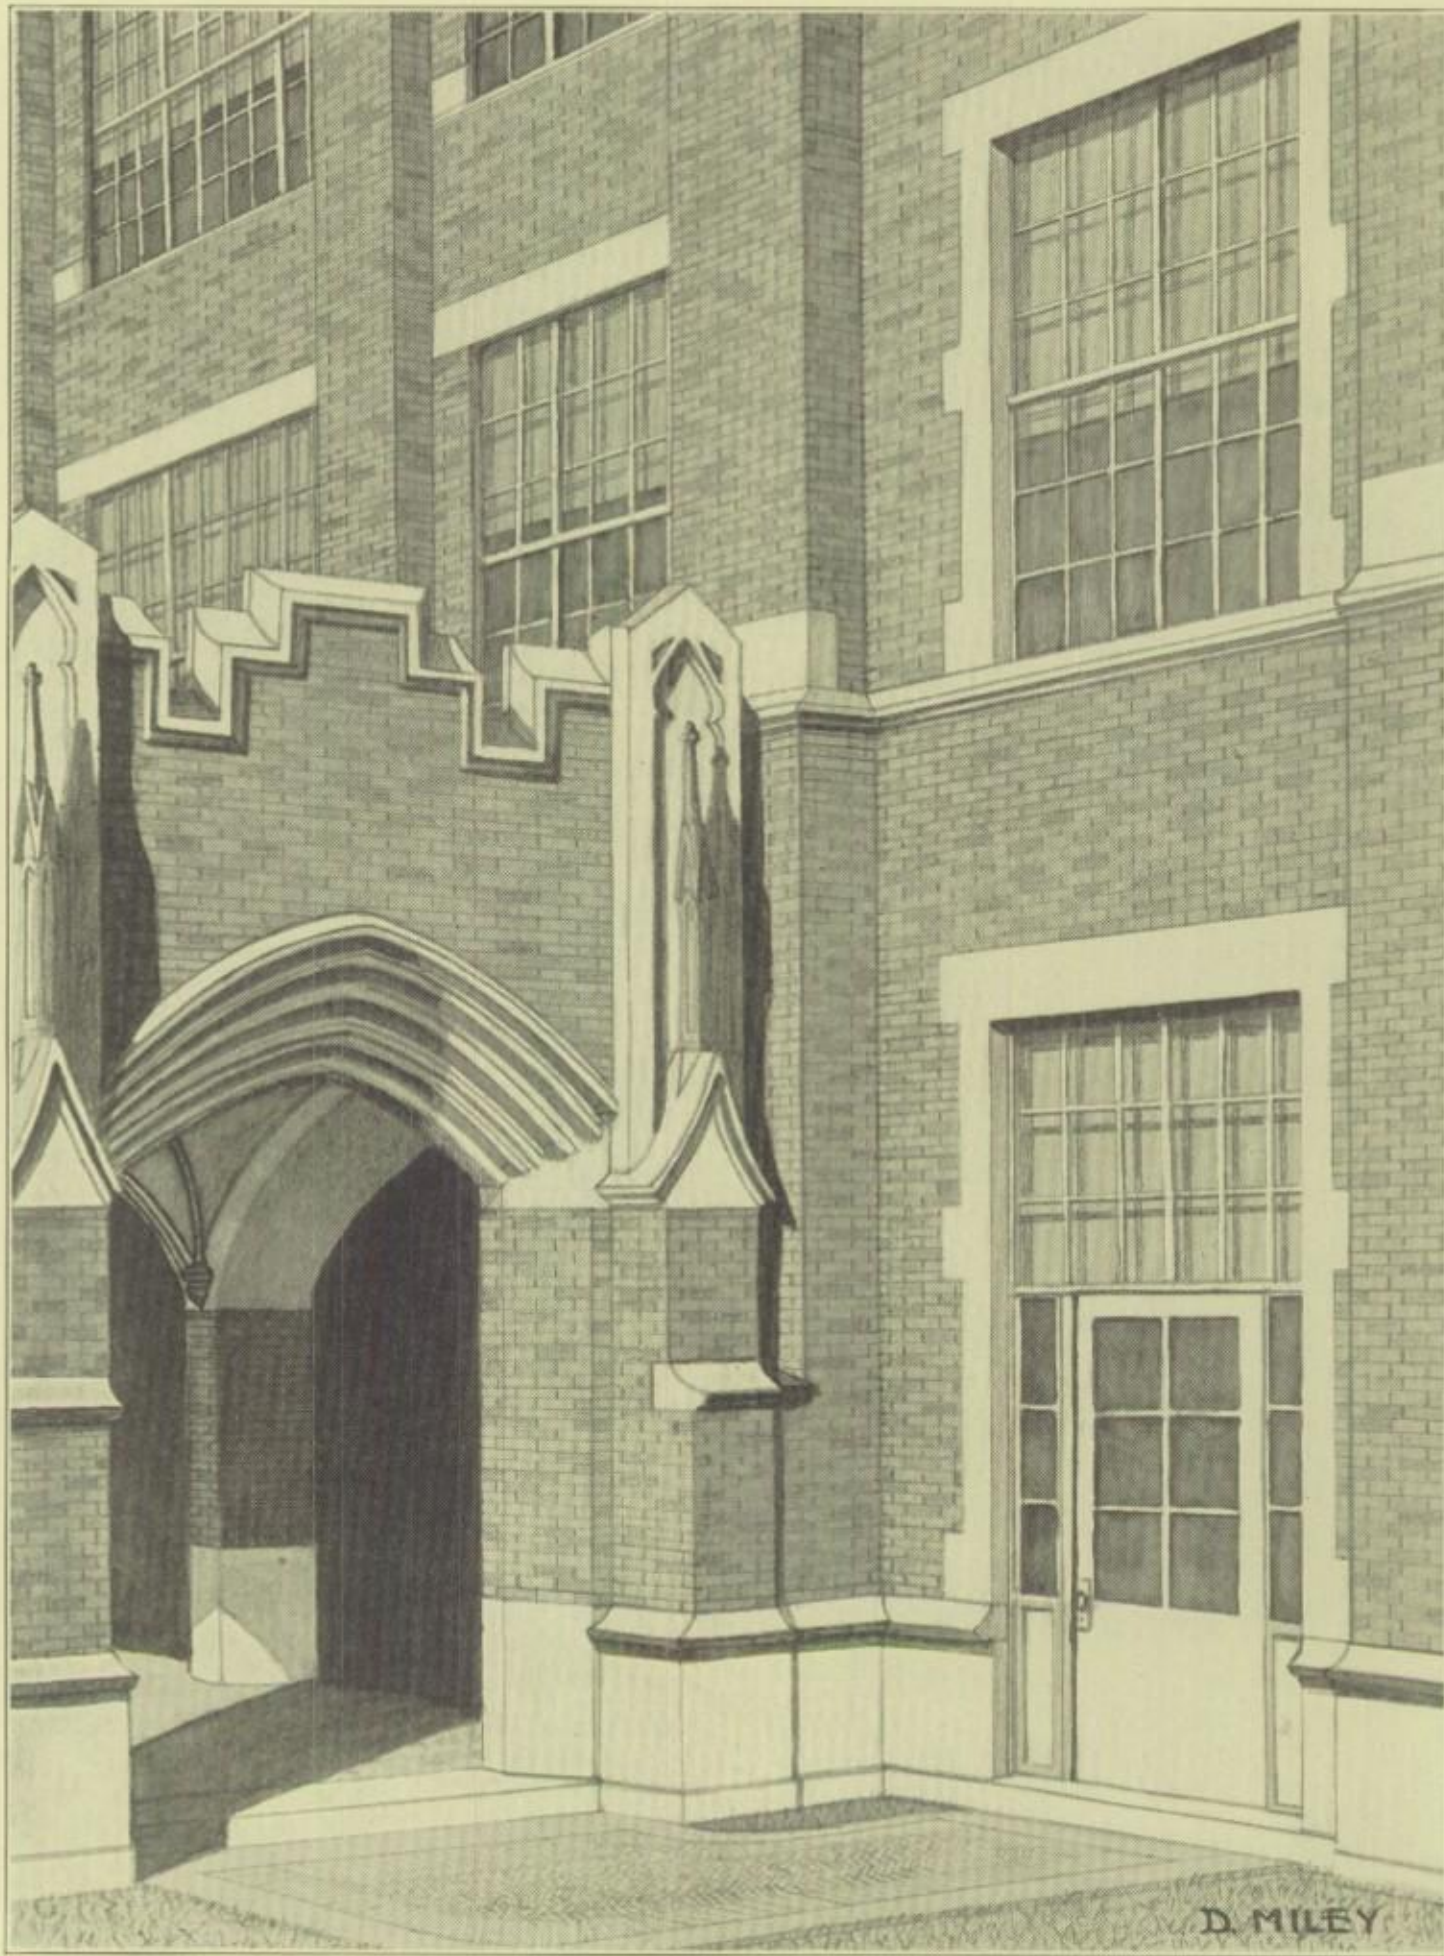

Mr. Libbey was a great lover of art, and largely through his efforts Toledo possesses one of the most beautiful Museums in the country. During his lifetime, Mr. Libbey was president of the Toledo Museum of Art, and a constant patron and benefactor of that institution.

In 1923 he was honored by having this high school named for him, because he had for so many years been a member of the Board of Education. It is pleasant to know that he was given this honor while he was yet alive to enjoy and appreciate it.

Mr. Libbey gave the Board of Education $35,000 to change the channel of Swan Creek and to fill in the ground where our stadium now stands. It was Mrs. Libbey, who in 1926 with a gift of $50,000 in honor of Mr. Libbey, made it possible for us to realize our cherished dream of a stadium.

Mr. Libbey died early in November, 1925, but he will live forever in our memories.

The Canyon

*Steady, upright rock,
 Massive, immovable,
 Helping the wandering stream
 In its course to greater channels;
 Lending color and life
 To the uncertain waves;
 Giving them an example
 Of might and steadfastness
 Which mirrors itself in them.
 Slowly the doubtful stream
 Flows in the arms of
 The silent and beautiful canyon
 Which guides its path with a paternal dignity.
 The tiny ripples
 Push and struggle ever onward
 To reach their goal.
 Swift is their early current
 Headlong, tempestuous.
 Then they are calm,
 Yet progress even in stillness.
 Turbulent, unsteady, or placidly crystalline,
 The stream is ever guided by the canyon.*

Board of Education

TOLEDO stands among the foremost cities of the nation in regard to its educational system. The Board of Education, which is responsible for this, and upon whose shoulders rests the great responsibility of providing for the mental development of Toledo's future citizens, is composed of Mr. Gustavus Ohlinger, Mr. Robert C. Dunn, Mr. David H. Goodwillie, Mr. Sidney Vinnedge, and Mrs. Ralph P. Daniells. These people have proved themselves to be most capable in the selection of ward and high school teachers.

Mr. Charles S. Meek is well known to every Toledoan who is in any way connected with the public schools. For many years he has served both loyally and well as Superintendent of Public Schools and has won the admiration and respect of the hundreds of school children for whom he has done so much. Another to whom we owe a great deal of gratitude is Mr. Ralph E. Dugdale, Assistant Superintendent, whose earnestness and good judgment have secured to him the friendship and esteem of all who know him.

An important factor in the development of the high schools is Mr. Roswell C. Puckett, whose willingness to cooperate has caused everyone to like and have confidence in him. He keeps the teachers in touch with modern educational methods, and, from his experience in the many problems he has had to face, is able to give excellent advice to those who would have a perplexing time solving a difficulty for themselves.

Because of his wonderful personality and understanding nature, Mr. Russell Wenzlau, Director of Schools, has earned the friendship and admiration of all with whom he comes in contact.

Through the efforts of these people, an adequate and efficient school system has been established in Toledo. Besides looking after present wants, they have taken great care to provide for future needs; through the opening of extension and vocational schools they have furnished a means of education to those who otherwise would not attend school.

Thus the school children of Toledo are living and growing in an atmosphere promotive of a spirit of progress and industry which we hope will inspire them to extend, in turn, the same privileges to the generations following them.

Departure

ANOTHER Commencement Day will soon be here. Another year will soon have passed. Once more the portals of Libbey will have opened wide to send forth her Sons and Daughters into the fray of life. Our hearts ache, and our eyes grow misty as they go. For we realize that life is hard, that strife and difficulties and long, patient hours of labor must be theirs. We know that misunderstanding and unpreparedness and unsympathetic souls must take their toll. But still we have faith in our Boys and Girls. We know that in the end they will adjust themselves, that they will rise triumphantly above all difficulties, and that some day they will enter the Land of Success.

Libbey has tried to lead you aright. We have taught you the value of consistent effort, the sacredness of labor, the need of trained minds, and the saving grace of Christian Character. We have sought to lead you into fields of education, where many vistas of endeavor have been opened to you. We have shown you that life is a great workshop where every soul must find his place and do his work. For life holds no place for the drone. Only he who does his daily task to the fullness of his capacity can truly succeed. We have often insisted that to your work must be added unselfish Service, that we are our brothers' keepers, and that life without human helpfulness is but sounding brass. Above all, we have called you to the Worship of God, to a Worship that is more than Belief of Mind, to a Worship that expresses itself in daily living.

Seniors! Juniors! Sophomores! Freshmen! All go forth into the new life of the summer's freedom, living the Spirit of your Alma Mater.

HAROLD E. WILLIAMS, Principal

Our Principal

ACH successive wave of pioneers that ventured across the trackless lands to the beckoning West was led by some experienced guide, who, alone, had encountered with courage and fortitude the burning deserts, the death valleys, the uncultivated prairies, and the defiant mountain battlements, and who had returned unscathed to aid blundering humanity through the safest passes. This leader differed from those he guided, for he did not endeavor to accumulate land and riches for himself, but bestowed his time voluntarily, proffering a loving hand to his fellowmen and assisting them by sharing with them the fruits of his hard-earned knowledge. The results of his untiring service could not be estimated in any duration of time or quantity of gold or silver. Its only plausible measure was in the happiness of those who followed his wise guidance and never swerved from the course.

Such a man have we at Libbey—our Principal, Mr. Harold E. Williams. Each consecutive day he stands before us leading a life which exemplifies ideal American manhood, anxious to aid us over the impediments that obstruct our path, eager to congratulate us in success, and ready to sympathize with us in adversity.

For four years we have received the benefits of his influence and ability, and we have prospered. We shall convey with us always an image of the man who gave us the most advantageous position on the beginning of life's pathway, and recalling his likeness, shall be inspired toward greater heights and more exalted aspirations. We shall not forget our indebtedness to Mr. Williams, our Principal, the guide of the first big undertaking in our lives.

Office Administration

A very efficient and coöperative division of our school is the office force. We might well compare them to the wheels of an engine, for without the wheels, the engine is useless. A great responsibility rests with these cheerful girls: Mrs. Sullivan, Miss Vye, and Miss Wrigley.

Even on the dreariest days we are greeted with the sunniest of smiles from them. Although their office hours are filled with their various duties, they will always willingly answer the innumerable questions asked them each day.

Mrs. Sullivan, the head clerk, is in charge of the finances. All money coming in or going out of any club treasury must first go through her hands. It is a big job, filled by a very capable girl.

Miss Vye takes care of the school book-room. She is there on the job every night at the opening of school in September for the first two weeks, and from then on every Tuesday and Thursday. We certainly feel the presence of Miss Vye.

Miss Wrigley is in charge of the attendance. She has very much to do when she accounts for every boy and girl enrolled in Libbey every day of the school year. A job such as that requires a girl like Miss Wrigley to fill it.

Of course, there are numberless other duties that these girls must perform that we cannot list here; however, we feel that our office force is a great asset to our school.

The Cafeteria

A stranger entering Libbey at 12:15 might wonder at the violent commotion. However, after a short time, the olfactory nerve of said stranger is stimulated to the point where he realizes the presence of tempting odors and looks no more for the old-fashioned dinner-bell. "These people need no corralling," says he and straight-way follows a particularly hungry-looking crowd to the fourth floor. Here he finds Mrs. Hall and her helpers serving a well-planned and well-balanced meal to over a thousand people. Helpers in the cafeteria include students who are in this way—no, not gaining weight—earning their way through school.

The stranger thinks perhaps these creditable youngsters are prejudiced, but proof against this is established by the presence of several tables filled with teachers from Walbridge and other neighboring schools.

Your fame, Mrs. Hall, is widespread and we congratulate you on your wonderful management of our cafeteria.

Custodians

A bewildering wind shrieking around corners, carrying with it sheets of stinging sleet! What can we do, but, after another glance at that guiding tower that means warmth and shelter, take a deep breath, lower our heads, and run. Oh, what a comfort to enter a building on such a morning as this with the assurance that we need not wear our coats to class or huddle around the hall radiators between classes. Certainly everyone's thanks may be directed to our efficient and faithful engineer, Edgar Smith, and his assistants. Although these men are seldom seen because of their close attention to their duties in the engine room, their presence might often be said to be felt by the comfort of our rooms.

Have you ever wondered who did the one-hundred-and-one little things around the school each day? Who is it that opens lockers when one forgets the combination? Who repairs the broken seats in the study rooms? Who is it one goes to when a hammer, a screw driver, or the like is needed? Mr. Hubbell and his group of helpers, five of which have been in the building since it was built, are the ones first thought of in such a predicament. One would think they would tire of their endless duties, but their willingness to help makes us realize the satisfaction of constantly doing things for others.

Mr. Hubbell has our building divided into several parts. These are in the care of certain people who, under his supervision, clean and arrange our rooms so it is a pleasure to enter them.

The Long Trail

*There is a trail—
Long, rough, uneven,
Reaching over the moody plains of life;
At times the bright glare of sunlight,
Birds singing, and the Blue heavens overhead;
Then suddenly the clouds,
Darkness—impending disaster.
But the trail leads on
Through verdant fields,
Thick, gloomy forests,
Barren deserts.
Ever turning,
Branching to new surroundings,
The trail points onward—
Onward to the ultimate.*

Honor Roll

For those who put forth honest, steadfast effort to attain success there is always a just reward. The morale of a school depends to a large extent on scholastic standing, and we all aim to prove our love and honor for our school by being good students, intent on serving those about us to the best of our ability. Each year a page of the year book is devoted to honoring those who have worked diligently and conscientiously through their four years at Libbey. The names of students from the junior and senior classes are listed according to their scholastic standing for the past four years. It is indeed an honor for any student to be mentioned in the Honor Roll and may these names be an inspiration to every student at Libbey.

Salutatory

LIBBEY! This is the last occasion we shall have to hail you from within. Tonight or tomorrow we begin to live another life—a life that is no longer lived within the shadow of your doors. We must stand on our own feet. We must be more sufficient to ourselves. We must go our separate ways. Regardless, though, of the pattern of life that the Fates have woven for us, we shall feel safe in the protection of the ideals that you have taught us. But how can a son salute a parent at the same time he must say good-bye?

To the one who has directed the course of our education during the last four years, we can only repeat that insufficient term, "Thank you." Mr. Williams, your experience with youth tells you far more clearly than we can, that your guidance has been an invaluable factor in the formation of these ideals.

And to you, teachers, whom we have seen each day for these last four years, how can we express our appreciation? If you know us, then you know how fully we appreciate the fact that you have given far more of yourselves to us than is demanded from a professional standpoint.

We want to thank you, Mr. Hunt, for the habits of reliability—and ingenuity—that you have taught us. You have interpreted the functions of an adviser literally.

The greatest force behind our secondary education career is our parents. We want to tell them that we realize Libbey for us has meant sacrifice for them.

As we look about us in this attempt to thank all these people that have made high-school a reality for us, we are confused because we don't know how to thank them individually; but then it occurs to us that Libbey is the embodiment of them all. So let us thank them in thanking Libbey—and let the medium be a silent one. Truly, the joy and sorrow in our hearts are a greater salute than any we could speak.

In your short history, Libbey, you have sent six classes from your doors. Now you open them a seventh time, this time to send us forth, not into the past, nor into the present, but into the future. As we look into this rather vague future, some of us see college campuses, some of us see factories—we all see different things in the foreground. But in the distance we all see a horizon, and further horizons. That is your greatest gift to us, Libbey. You have taught us to dream.

We came to you as children, just starting those turbulent years of adolescence, and now we leave you as youth, eager youth, with arms over head, and feet climbing upward—a fitting salute to so great a mother.

The Dream of Youth

*Ethereal beauty, ringing transcendant—
 The molten-golden notes
 Of a violin beneath an artist's hands—
 A skillful genius who,
 With exquisitely delicate touch
 Caressing the quivering, vibrant strings,
 Wrings from the heart
 Its inmost secrets,
 And speaks with unashamed emotion,
 Voicing the unutterable passions of souls
 Down all the Ages—
 Speaks of sorrow and joy,
 Of hate and love,
 And longing.*

*Ethereal beauty, gleaming transcendent—
 The fire unquenchable
 Flaming forever in the soul of youth—
 The eager youth
 Whose restless, burning gaze
 Yearns always toward the future,
 Wrings from the past
 Its long-sought truths,
 And speaks with candid understanding,
 Voicing the unutterable passions of souls
 Down all the Ages—
 Speaks of sorrow and joy,
 Of hate and love,
 And longing.*

Class History

OND memories, pleasant recollections, pride in accomplishment are blurs as we look back over that phase of our life which is now ending.

We are first concerned with ourselves as we were on a September morning in 1926, when as freshmen we first entered Libbey. We quickly became acquainted with each other and with our patient and kindly leaders who helped us so much in our many troubles of the year.

Upon our return the next fall as sophomores, our number was swelled by the entrance of a large group of students who had been freshmen at Jones Junior High. We began to assert ourselves in the many activities of the school outside of studies. Clubs, societies, dances, shows, and various other entertainments helped to make this very eventful year pass all too quickly.

In our junior year we were more determined than ever to exceed all preceding classes in accomplishment. To this end, under the guidance of our genial adviser, Mr. Hunt, we organized our class, electing Bob (Tony) Shepherd president.

To better acquaint the juniors with one another, a Junior Jig was given in the gym, Syd Friedlander and his orchestra furnishing the music.

The next event was a magazine subscription campaign in which we competed with the seniors, not beating them, however, but earning three hundred dollars which we donated to the stadium fund. We were the first class ever to donate part of the senior memorial during the junior year.

The outstanding social achievement of our junior year was, of course, the J-Hop held at the Woman's Building, February ninth. The music was furnished by Jean Goldkette's Ramblers. The committee, Mary Entemann, Bob Florian, Dorothy Kanode and Nondus Corbett, led by Judd Polk, proved itself very efficient.

We will always remember March fourth of our junior year. Radios were installed in the school and we listened in on the inaugural services of President Hoover.

Our efforts as juniors were culminated by bringing the Rochester Glee Club and Orchestra to Toledo for a program of songs and dance music in our auditorium and gym.

George Barth

Our Senior year at Libbey—the best year of the four!

With Carl Link as President, Virginia Storm, Vice-President, Annabelle Hawkins, Secretary, Tom Butterworth, Treasurer, and Leonard Wilhelm, Sergeant-at-Arms, we have had a capable administration throughout this successful year.

The first enterprise, the magazine subscription campaign, was a success. We beat the juniors and earned over two hundred dollars for our treasury.

The annual carnival held in December was a magnificent affair, showing Libbey's spirit at its height. The proceeds were applied to the stadium debt.

The Cowboy Roundup was in charge of a committee consisting of Edna Post, Chairman, Dorothy Rathbun, Ruth Mielke, James Dean, James Loehrke, and Bob Lewinski.

We received our senior rings at the delightful Christmas ring party, arranged by the committee in charge of Robert Hudspeth and consisting of Robert Lipner, Bernard Krajeski, Lurlyn Cameron, Lucille Standen, and Lola Stamm.

Mr. Webster and the Workshop staged some highly entertaining plays this year. Foremost was the senior class play, "Seventh Heaven" of stage and screen fame, presented April twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth. The seniors included in its cast were Virginia Storm, Dave Hunker, Bob Florian, Loren Beebe, Bernice Rubedeaux, Marian Smith, Ed Owens, and Robert Elmer. Starring in the delightful comedy "Loose Ankles," were Melvin Eberlin, David Hunker, Charlotte Kepner, and James Loehrke. The uproarious comedy farce "Lottery Man," found our President, Carl Link, in an awful "scrape" as the hero of the story. The supporting cast was excellent. Much talent was displayed in the presentation of a series of conference hour playlets.

Our orchestra made an excellent showing in its three concerts, one in our auditorium, one before a large crowd at the Art Museum, and the last in combination with the other high school orchestras.

We have reason to be proud of Ruby Pienert, cello player, who was chosen a member of the National High School Orchestra.

The combined Glee Club and orchestra presented two splendid operettas, "Up in the Air" and "The Lass of Limerick Town," also "College Days," a conference hour entertainment.

During the past year, two debating teams were organized and entered in the Ohio Debating League. Our negative team won two out of three, and affirmative, one out of three exciting verbal contests.

Both student publications, the Crystal and the Edelian, have had the largest circulation in their histories.

Back to the social side, the Senior Prom, true to tradition the biggest social event of the year, was held May second at Madison Gardens. Nate Fry and his "Michigan State Gold Diggers," a versatile collegiate orchestra from Michigan State College, delighted the crowd with its novelty numbers. Planning the unique programs and beautiful decorations was all part of the work of the committee, consisting of Richard Brayton, Chairman, Blanche Schalow, Helen Rambeau, Charlotte Kepner, Irving Reiser, and Robert Florian. Those chaperoning the dance were: Mr. Harold E. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Meek, Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Puckett, Dr. Chas. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. LaRue, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brayton, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stapleton, Miss Hazel Bartley, Miss Hazel Darby, Miss Ruth Dusha, Miss Ethel Snow, Mr. Harry Rice, Mr. Herman Harding, Mr. G. R. Webster, Mr. Paul Reading.

The Senior Banquet was held at the Richardson Building, May thirty-first, and oh, what a spread was provided for us by Betty Long and her helpers, Marian Smith, Irene Carr, Eugene Eisenhower, Loren Beebe, and Larry Noonan. The class phophesy, poem, and history were read and we received our Edelians.

All arrangements for the successful picnic were made by a committee with Art Gluntz as Chairman. His members were Roland Finfrock, Warren Kelly, Kathleen Spangler, and Dorothy Krepleever. The choice of announcements was detailed to a committee of Dorothy Kanode, Chairman, Don Merrick, George Barth, Ned Stoiber, Doris Chrisman, and Edith Lippold.

With the Baccalaureate sermon and the Commencement exercises, our high school life has culminated. We have completed that phase in our life, but we start anew upon another. May we always treasure the memories of these years spent in Libbey, may they be a source of endless pleasure, and may the sacred principles and ideals instilled in us during these years be a source of courage and conviction to strengthen us in future years.

CARLTON R. SCHUETZ

Class Prophecy

LADIES and gentlemen, we are now about to depart on a personally conducted tour of the West, on which you have all engaged transportation. I am the "personally conducted" part. I will be your guide through the wilds of Chicago, your informant concerning anything you wish to know, even your confidant, if you wish it.

Living as we do in Ohio, we regard everything lying even immediately west of us as a part of the glamorous West (spelled with a capital); therefore the first town we come to is Holland, Ohio. As we pass along the smooth roads of this quaint little village, we see on the left the new and modern Do-Right Laundry, owned and operated by Dick Kramp. He has assisting him, Irving Im Oberstag, as Head Scrubber, Bernola Beuche as Chief Wringer-out, and Ned Stoiber as Commanding Officer of the staff of Dryers, which includes Helen Mucci, Virginia Marker, and Donald Jardine.

We now take a long jump to Chicago, where we really begin to feel the atmosphere of the West. Chicago is at present in the midst of a gang war, the like of which they have never before experienced. The one side is led by Bob Lipner, that big and tough gangster of whom you have all read, and the other by Bob Lewinski, whose wily methods of attack have never been equaled for originality. The gang war was started by Larry Noonan, hijacking a shipment of illicit chewing-gum which was being driven across the border by Robert Krauss, Floyd Kessler, and Harold Tubbs. They say the four men got into a game of bridge, and the animosities were really started because some one trumped some one's ace, but they use the other reason for publicity purposes. The reporters that are covering the case are Lola Stamm, Robert Sawyer, Ellen Marie Scott, and Phil McGee.

We'll stay over night in Chicago at the "Weatherby Hotel," the manager of which is Charles Rhoades. The bell-hop who rushes slowly forward to take our bags is Nelson Volz, the chubby little elevator girl is Annabelle Hawkins, the waitress who serves us a delicious dinner of clams and sauerkraut is Corinne Harris. While we're here, we may as well see a show. The star of the "Nicely

"Naive Revue," written by Ivan Grodi, is Phyllis Pettit, and her leading man is Fred McClintic. In the chorus are Evelyn Dirr, Elizabeth Cranker, and Gertrude Kolasinski. The usherette who showed us to our seats just now was Mary Ann Ward. The driver of our taxi looked rather familiar. Where have I seen that handsome face before? Oh yes, it's Tom Butterworth. And that policeman we just passed is Bob Florian. He used to be a big, bad, bold gangster, but was reformed by three excellent church workers, Kathryn Fellerath, Ruth Hoppe, and Mary Entemann.

We'll take a plane this morning from Chicago to St. Louis. The pilot is Jack Bearss and the navigator is Marjorie Kibler. St. Louis is in the throes of a flood, so we won't remain here very long. Lawrence Gorham and Harriet Strieght take a little row-boat and go around distributing cut glass punch bowls to all the needy. Those three people on the right, floating by despondently on that roof are Harriet Wise, Willis Suhrbier, and Marion Smith. Edward Lilly and Barton Swartz, thugs wanted in forty-seven states, were captured here last week when the speak-easy run by Robert Leroux was flooded. The detectives who had tracked them down were Reo Stauffer, Emil Hebel, and Ovid McCombs.

From St. Louis we are going on a flat-bottomed boat to New Orleans. The captain of our boat, "The Betty Long," is Gene Eisenhour. Deck hands are George Barth, Ray Eberts, and Oliver Friess. The steward is Loren Beebe, known as "Bullets" to his friends, and if you treat him nicely he may bring his trained monkey to do tricks for you.

At New Orleans we run into a Mardi Gras, whose queen is Helen Rambeau. She has for her ladies-in-waiting, Velma Marvin and Thelma Bodell. Those three huge clowns coming down the street toward us are George Millrood, Wilma Steusloff, and Eugene Natal. There goes James Dean who invented confetti that disappears of its own accord the morning after a party. Irv. Reiser also has his factory down here, where they make those vehicles that can be driven equally well on land, sea, or air, and when not otherwise in use can be used to entertain the baby, or mow the lawn. He has working for him Carlton Shuetz, Henry Zalusky, and Kenneth Kraemer. Dorothy Draheim, the swimmer, started from here and swam out into the Gulf. She was unheard of until she was picked up off the coast of Australia by Edwin Geldien's private yacht. Speaking of Australia, that is where Allwin Schroder and Floyd Fowler have their combination diamond and kangaroo farm. Lurlyn Cameron is the lady president of Australia and Maxine Cothorn is her Prime-Ministerette.

From New Orleans we wander along the coast of Texas until we get down near the border of Mexico. Joe Lengyel is King of Mexico, having changed it from a republic long ago. The Chief High Lord Chancellor is Lee Hawkins, and between the two of them, Mexico is doing things. The last president they had was Don Merrick, who went for chili in a big way. Thus he began to think himself red hot, and while in swimming one day, he heated the water so much that he scalded to death. He is still deeply mourned by his four wives, Irene Carr, Berneta Bragg, Dorothy Halstead, and Nonnie Corbett. Roy Dinnee resides somewhere in Mexico. You remember he was the man who conceived the idea of attaching Mexican jumping beans to aeroplanes and then using a smaller engine.

We follow the border of Mexico on donkeys (that is, we are on the donkeys — not the border) along to Arizona, arriving at Phoenix where it is 108 degrees in the shade, and everyone is going around all bundled up in fur coats. Melvin Eberlin, the great scientist, has convinced the inhabitants that the best way to keep cool is to wear clothes in abundance. Peeping behind a particularly lovely fur coat, is Virginia Fifer, who is now Mrs. Harmon Punches, wife of the fire chief. The owner of that beautiful little eighteen-room hut over yonder is Robert Lasko, the present mayor of the town. On the right is the home of James Coleman, who amassed a fortune by establishing waffle stands across the desert.

As we cross the Colorado River into California, we see Robert Lucas, James Scott, and Ed. Matzinger swimming playfully among the crocodiles. Perhaps you didn't know they had crocodiles in the Colorado River. They didn't until after the return of the Russell Byron Expedition from Africa. President Polk decided the U. S. didn't have enough crocodiles, so he sent Lennie Wilhelm, James Whipple, and Roy Jordan to bring some back—and they did. Bill Hepler went along, but he didn't come back, because you see, he happened one day to meet a particularly hungry crocodile. Ray Steusloff was also a member of the expedition, but he remained to become Sultan of Yes Yes Land, a small section of darkest Africa. There is a wild band of Amazon-like-women in Africa led by Florence Osmialowski and including Helen Besancon, Genevieve Conway and Virginia Emline. They chanced to be camping near the expedition one night and were greatly attracted by James Loehrke. The next morning he had disappeared, and although he was carefully searched for, was never again seen nor heard of.

We now cross southern California and enter San Diego, where lives that famous authoress, Constance O'Neill, whose book, "How to Live Happily, Though a Student," has been read by everyone. From San Diego we take the boat over to Catalina Island, which is run by Dick Crayne and Bob Packard. Catalina Island has become well-known through the erection on its shores of the Charlotte Kepner Dancing School. Dorothy Kemp, May Gable, and Jennie Baertschi, members of this school, flit gracefully along the sandy shores and commune with the little fishes.

Returning from Catalina, we travel on north, with the lovely, turquoise Pacific on one side and the imposing Sierras on the other. We are making the trip in one of the large, comfortable busses of the Burnett Felker Bus Line.

On arriving at Hollywood, we make a trip out to the magnificent Shepler Studio, where Ruth Mielke and Karl Radke have the leads in "The Elusive Question Mark," that thrilling mystery written by Mary Turner and Directed by Charles Fisher. As we drive out Hollywood Boulevard, we stop at "The Sign of the Two Ediths," that famous restaurant which is only open from 11:00 P. M. to 6:00 A. M., and is greatly patronized by the movie stars for midnight lunches and breakfasts-at-dawn. All the dishes are named after the stars, and as we munch an Alice Bartlett Sandwich and sip a Dorothy Rathbun Milkshake, we see Virginia Storm, the tragedienne, at one table laughing and joking with Paul Peters and Donald Delker. John Krull and Dorothy Younkman are executing a difficult tango in the middle of the floor to the strains of "Sweet Syncopation," written by that popular young composer, Perry Wilson. The orchestra is under the direction of David Houck, and some of its members are Maurice Foster, Paul Bremer, saxophonist, and George Henry. That melancholy man over in the corner is the latest Hermit of Hollywood, Ray Beckwith. A long time ago he was disappointed in love and since has had nothing to do with women. They say that Lois Bussdieker and Marie Kuebbeler both committed suicide because he repeatedly refused to notice them.

Continuing our northward trend, we arrive at San Francisco, and the Golden Gate. Over on the corner, behind that luxuriant flower stand, is Paul Gerwin, who is shouting his wares lustily. The nimble street cleaner who just passed us was Nelson Schneider. San Francisco is the home of the international golf champion, Bob Gillespie, who claims he made a hole in one-half, because he only half swung at the ball. The question is now under consideration by those three great golf critics and authorities, Robert Rankin, Vernola Beuche, and Carl Link. Floyd Fennell, who invented popcorn that will really pop, lives here. Money is no longer used in San Francisco. Leland Swartz made a law saying everything should be traded. The idea was quickly accepted by the populous and is swiftly spreading to other cities. One of the largest exchange stores is the two hundred and fifty-story building owned by Paul Merce and Bernard Krajeski.

From here we go to Reno, where lives the well-known Judge Warren Kelly. Bill Miller is at present in the act of getting a divorce from his wife, Florence (who was Florence Rogge before she was married).

Taking a flying jump from Reno over the Cascade Range, we land at Portland, Oregon. This is the home of Dorothy Krepleever, the aviatrix who flew around the world four times without stopping, thereby breaking the previous record of Blanche Schalow, who got around twice but was forced to come down on the third lap because she was radioed that her husband, Le Roy Severance, was running away with the world's champion checker player, Helen De Mars. Here in Portland, is the home for stray chimpanzees and parrots, run by Edna Post and Alma Schleiman. The chief chimpanzee back scratcher is Ina Ruehle, and the head parrot manicurist is Mary Brown. This is also where the Woolen Sock Company is located, which is owned by Abner Meech, and run by Melvin Powers. They make all kinds and colors of socks, including pink and purple ones.

From Portland we go up to Seattle, Washington, where things are in a turmoil. If the United States ever has a war with Canada it will be because David Hunker, who lives in the United States, and Jack Cameron, who lives in Canada, can't decide which of their respective children shall sail their boats on Puget Sound.

As we pass Mt. Rainier, we hear of a potato-pushing contest up to its peak. The latest returns are, first place, Arthur Gluntz; second, Eunice Blakeman; third, James Lyons.

As we pass through Montana, on our way to Yellowstone National Park, we stop for a couple of days at the huge ranch of Roland Finfrock. His ranch foreman is Bob Hudspeth and his most expert cowboy at roping and tying is Leroy Lee. Just a few miles from here is a girls' ranch, owned by Kathleen Spangler and Ruby Peinert, and run entirely by the so-called weaker sex. Some of the most versatile of them who can do everything from picking daisies to branding steers are Karolyn Fellerath, Evelyn White, and Anna Putnam.

When we finally arrive at Yellowstone, we find it is not the place we thought it, since it has been entirely taken over by Communists, led by Dick Brayton. The only thing they haven't gotten control of is "Old Faithful," which is carefully guarded and commercialized on by that perpetually shrewd business man, Don Appel.

From Yellowstone, our route takes us to Pike's Peak. The latest fad, which was started by that eccentric millionairess, Doris Chrisman, is kiddy-car races. Albert Woitzel recently made it to the top in two days, closely followed by Howard Wonnell, whose time was one day, twenty-three hours, and fifty-nine minutes. Pueblo, just a little south of the Peak, was where Harry Jackman was recently kidnapped by the girl bandit trio, Juanita Lee, Lois Retzke, and Harvella Limoges. They are the terror of the West, and a constant bother to Eddie Owens, chief-of-police of Pueblo. There is a standing reward for their capture of two and three-fourths cents.

But by now I imagine you are rather wearied of our journey, and have begun to wonder if Junior and Jane are quite safe and well with Aunt Susan, after all. And though I could take you many, many, more places and show you many, many, more famous persons, I will refrain and we will take an express plane back to old Toledo, where we'll all go our various ways again, and where you no longer need my guidance. So—Good-bye, good luck, and God bless you all.

DOROTHY KANODE, '30

Valedictory

*"The youth, who daily farther from the east
Must travel, still is Nature's priest,
And by the vision splendid
Is on his way attended;
At length the Man perceives it die away,
And fade into the light of common day."*

Youth surely cannot be said to be bereft of spiritual insight, for this period of his life is especially associated with nature and with lofty ideals. His whole outlook is colored with a fervid imagination which stimulates his active mind to soar to practically inaccessible heights. To him nothing is impossible, while the seemingly impossible possesses by far the most charm. He is an optimist, an iconoclast, and a disciple of truth. His heart pulsates always with ethereal hope; his mind strives to strip fallacious institutions and superstitions of all sham and to place the results before his fellow men; and his soul responds and acquiesces only to unembellished truth. To him truth and God are synonymous; and he understands the divine plan of his Creator, revering, and endeavoring to affiliate himself more closely with his Maker. The vision of his ideal occupies his pure mind, and materialism, beckoning to many wiser and more experienced than he, has no charm for him.

We, who are leaving Libbey after a sojourn of four successful years, are representative of countless thousands of America's youth. Prior to this day we have been to the greatest extent guarded and protected from actual contact with the life of the world by our parents and friends, but now by means of their advice and instruction, we are going to stand alone, unassisted, competing with others for life's rewards. For us life offers two distinct spheres of action: the first bears the indelible stamp of materialism, and the second is illuminated by the elusive gleam of idealism. For us is to decide whether everything worthwhile, beautiful, and sacred shall be disregarded for money and worldly honors, or whether happiness for others and ourselves, and the untiring pursuit of noble ideals shall be our goal. The world, it is true, chooses to call those successes who have at their command wealth and fame. But are we willing to accept this definition as the ultimatum? Who has the right to allot his fellow-men to any especially assigned category dependent upon the results of their labors? Success is not tangible; it is not something you can place your finger upon. It can neither be measured with a yard stick nor compressed within a definition; it will always remain abstract. However, might we not regard a successful life as one in which happiness has been achieved, and money sacrificed rather than principle?

We feel that with the illustrious traditions of Libbey firmly instilled in our hearts, we shall attain worthy goals, and augment the prestige of our school. Thus, we can but say "Farwell, Edward Drummond Libbey High School."

*"Thou hast like to a rock-built refuge stood

Junior Activities

THE Junior Class, under the supervision of Mr. Cony has completed a very successful year. The season opened with a magazine drive in which they defeated the Seniors by securing the greater number of subscriptions. The contest caused a great deal of excitement, and enthusiasm was not lacking on either side. The victory of the Juniors was aided by the activities of a committee composed of Dorothy Neuber, chairman, Lois O'Yler, Carl Schmuhl, and Merlin Willey, and the excellent cooperation of the Juniors. This first success of the year inspired the Juniors to greater deeds and they united their efforts with those of the Seniors in selling season football tickets, the profits of which were added to the stadium fund.

In accordance with the custom of previous years, of having Mr. Webster produce a play, "The Lottery Man," was presented. The ticket sale was sponsored by the Juniors, and the proceeds went into the class treasury. The play met with great success and was repeated at a later date for the students, that all who desired might have an opportunity of seeing it.

The greatest and crowning event of the Junior year is the J-Hop. This year it was held on Saturday, February the fifteenth, at the Woman's Building. George Crawford and his "Playing Parsons" contributed much to the success of the evening with their fine dance music. The committee in charge of the hop, consisted of Joe Heyman, chairman, Bill Anderson, Beatrice Fleck, Maxine Nicholson, and LaVerne Smith.

On the first of March the committee, consisting of George O'Donnell, chairman, Cornell Schafer, Virginia Wienk, Phyllis Kuhnle, and Maxine Nicholson, arranged for the annual Junior-Senior Mixer. This event has always afforded a great deal of pleasure to the upper classmen and marked the end of the activities with a feeling of satisfaction and pride in the accomplishments of the season.

Trees

*Against the emerald mirror
Of a mountain lake
The spires of tall pines rise;
Trim bright green
Of the young trees
Accenting the dusky shagginess
Of the old patriarchs;
Youth and experience,
Side by side
In unbroken files.
They have endured—these ordered ranks
Still tall, strong, invincible—
From the storm of time
They have emerged—
Supreme.*

The monthly magazine of Libbey High School, the Crystal, published seven times during the school year, has now completed its seventh year of publication. Its purpose is to foster the literary and artistic ability of the students, to keep a record of the activities of the school, to promote the journalistic and business ability of the staff, and to serve as a bond between the alumni and the student body.

This magazine, which presents a well-rounded view of school life, is rated high among high school publications. In 1927 it won the State Cup—see Trophy Case—and in other contests has frequently received honorable mention.

The purpose of our club is "to stand for good school work, wholesome pleasures, a friendly spirit, helpfulness to others, and a normal, happy friendship with Jesus Christ." Our standards of membership and program are based upon this purpose.

The theme around which we have built our program was "Ship A'Hoy." Through plays, discussions, and talks we have "With all Hands on Deck," "Planned the Journey," "Set the Sail," "Visited Foreign Ports," "Followed the Guiding Star," discussed "Sharks and Barnacles," "Jolly Tars," and "Mirages." We have tried to be "Ship Shape," have banqueted with our "Shipmates," finally have "Changed Watch," and at the Senior Farewell we "Reached Port."

Early in the year of 1929-1930, the Senior Friendship Club girls decided to "copy" some other school clubs and have uniforms. The brown dress trimmed in gold, which first appeared at the pep meeting just before the Libbey-Scott football game, showed the result of the "copy." At this time we presented a play, "The Libbey Primary School of 1930." The pupils were the children and nieces and nephews of the famous 1930 Libbey Football Team. Each member of the football squad was given a lucky horseshoe tied in Maize and Blue.

Because the girls of the Friendship Club are all loyal supporters of Libbey Athletics and wanted to do something special to put pep into the games, we sold gold and blue banners, megaphones, pom-poms, and balloons, and with the proceeds bought gold and blue uniforms for the cheer leaders. We really felt quite proud when we saw how fine they looked.

During the opening week of school, used books were bought and sold. This made it much easier for many pupils to get books, and with the small commission which we made we were able to pay for books for a good many worthy pupils.

We have tried in many ways to be "helpful to others." We shared in the Y. W. C. A. World Fellowship gift; sent substantial sunshine to some hungry folks at Thanksgiving; gave two sets of books at Christmas, a picture party in March, and a May Day party to some orphans at the Miami Children's Home; and acted as "secret fairies" to some girls who needed several things during the school year which they could not have because of economic conditions.

The Hi-Y and Friendship Clubs of Libbey joined with the other high schools in a series of Forum Meetings on the Sunday afternoons of February. The discussions were on "Race Relations," "Boy and Girl Friendships," "Ideals," and "Home Relations." These talks were very helpful and the friendships formed between the students of the different schools may prove enduring.

The Friendship and Hi-Y clubs sponsored two series of morning Devotional Services. At the meetings before Christmas the speakers were: Mr. Williams, Miss Marjorie Rank, Rev. Dunham, and Rev. Young. The conclusion of these series was a lovely Christmas Pageant written by Mrs. Della Williams Paine. At the Lenten Chapel Devotions, Mr. Reading, Mr. Blanchard, Miss Margaret Stevenson, and Miss Voorheis were the speakers. An Easter play, entitled "Simon, the Cyrenian," was given at a mass meeting before Easter.

We have not forgotten to have plenty of good times. In September we had a breakfast at Walbridge Park. This was followed by our annual Hallowe'en Party with the Hi-Y and a Christmas Banquet at Broadway M. E. Church.

The members and coaches of the 1930 Basketball team were guests of the Friendship Club Cabinet at a banquet given at St. Paul's M. E. Church. The boys are still treasuring those Libbey pillows, and how Lennie loves his trophy!

Just before Easter a bake sale held in The Commerce Guardian Bank, added to our bank account.

Then came the "Old Folk's Concert" and "Ice House Quartet," sponsored by the Friendship Club.

The biggest event was the Mothers' and Daughters' Banquet, and the most thrilling was Helen Mucci's "Italian Spaghetti Party."

Our president, Annabelle Hawkins, has helped in putting over every event during the year. Her enthusiastic spirit and ready smile have given the girls pep to take over many hard tasks.

As we look back over the past year's activities, under the guidance of our president and our adviser, Miss Gertrude Payne, we know that it has been a very enjoyable period and we have tried to make it a very helpful one.

The Junior Friendship Club is one of the essential devices which brings Libbey freshmen and sophomore girls into a closer friendship. Its purpose is to bring its members also into a happier intimacy with Jesus Christ and to help each girl to face life squarely, to find and give the best.

Among the fine series of interesting programs this year, have been talks by faculty members, plays, musical selections, and other distinctive entertainments. In the social service branch of work, orphans and Indians have been cared for, and the club has contributed to the Y. W. C. A. World Fellowship Fund. Among the attainments of the social

One of the first clubs established at Libbey was the Hi-Y Club. For several years its membership included boys from all four classes. As the membership grew, first the Freshmen boys were excluded and then later the Sophomores. Our club now includes boys elected from the Junior and Senior classes. Our membership is purely elective and is limited to seventy-five.

The program and standards are based on a statement of the national Hi-Y Clubs, "to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character." This is a big job in this day of jazz and loose living. "To maintain standards of Christian character" means to live after the standards of the Christ. This takes courage, resolution, stamina and a real vision of life's true purposes.

Our club meets each Wednesday for a discussion of boys' problems, for an inspirational address or a business meeting. Each month an initiation is held. No boy ever forgets that ceremony, not for its horse-play, but for the vivid life lessons taught.

Our activities have been many and varied. In conjunction with the Friendship Club, we have sponsored and planned weekly chapel services during the Christmas, Lenten and Easter seasons. These have been largely attended and productive of much good. We have promoted a vocational guidance campaign in which every Junior and Senior boy was given an opportunity to have a vocational interview with some man trained in the profession of the pupil's interest. Our vocational banquet and interview session was attended by over three hundred. Early in the school we held a Freshmen mixer where the Freshmen boys were entertained and the traditions and ideals of the school explained.

Our advisers are Principal H. E. Williams and C. J. Dyer, secretary of the South Side Y. M. C. A.

To the boys, Mr. Dyer is far more than an adviser of their club. To them, he is a loyal, faithful friend and confidant. Possessed of a winning personality, he has bound the boys to him with bonds of sincere friendship. They trust him implicitly and so feel free to discuss their most intimate problems with him. To them he is not just "Mr. Dyer," but is respectfully called "Chal."

Mr. Dyer has been interested and helpful in all phases of Libbey's life. As a member of the first Stadium Committee, he did much to organize that movement. He has been a helpful worker along athletic lines, and has assisted in school parties and plays. In short, Mr. Dyer can always be counted upon to help and to boost Libbey in every way possible.

and their advisers, the Misses Ruth Dusha, Zuleme Hatfield, and Mary Hutchison, they have made noteworthy progress with their literary endeavors. Their literary programs have been of high merit, consisting of development of poetry, and biographical reports.

The Peris have been prominent also in the social field. They invited the Zets and Phils to co-operate with them in a 'Tri-Lit Dance, "The War-Whoop," which proved to be an admirable success. Their Annual Dance was held at the Maumee River Yacht Club, which was ingeniously transformed into a winter icicle palace by an able committee, consisting of Doris Chrisman, chairman, Virginia Weink, Frieda Johnson, and Jean Smith. By the large number of dancers it was easy to see that another year a more spacious hall would have to be obtained.

The Peri members entertained their sister Peris of Waite and Scott at a Chinese Tea with an interesting program. Later they were guests of the Scott Peris at an informal tea.

The Periclean Literary Society is carrying on the glowing torch for the coming custodians of the society, and they hope to achieve even greater heights in the approaching years.

with the Forum in the middle of April, and the usual rush parties, initiations, and spreads filled our social year with pleasure. Our social programs were made up of a play, music, or impromptu debates and talks.

Discussions of modern authors and their works of both poetry and prose were incentives for attendance to our meetings.

After several meetings with the Scott Phils, we revised our constitution, which had been drawn up several years ago and was becoming inadequate for our present activities.

The departing seniors may be satisfied that they have done their part in making their last year a successful one. The remaining members look forward to other years just as full of activity.

programs have made us more appreciative of good literature. We have dealt both with the serious and the humorous in literature; the works of contemporary and of non-contemporary writers. These varied and interesting programs have been arranged so that at some time or another every member of the society takes part in one of them.

The social side of school was not neglected by the Zets. There were spreads, teas, roasts, and dances. One dance, called the "War-whoop" was given in conjunction with the Peris and the Phils. The music for the annual Zet-Q. D. dance was furnished by Buck Arnold's Rhythm, and the committee for the arrangements included Kitty Weatherby, Mary Entemann, Margaret Lewis, and Naomi Deitrickson.

The Zets have tried this year to promote the most worth-while activities at Libbey. They have remembered their motto, "Nothing without work," and with the help of their loyal and able advisers, have worked hard to make the activities of the Zets successful.

We know that Zetaletheans can anticipate another year as happy and busy as this has been.

The Forum Literary Society enjoyed a very successful year under the guiding hand of our president, Tom Butterworth, who was assisted by our advisers, Mr. Boyle and Mr. Stapleton. Several members of the Libbey Debating Team are active members of the Forum.

month with their usual interesting programs. The most attractive one offered was an illustrated lecture by Mr. Featherstone.

The outstanding social event of the Forum's 1929-1930 program was the "April Dream Dance" given in co-operation with the Philaethean Literary Society on April 11. The dance committee was composed of Loren Beebe, Richard Crayne, and James Loehrke, representing the Forum. The dance was held in a setting of silver and blue, fashioned into a sky with conventional stars. We sincerely hope that our future dances will be as successful.

The Forum operated a sensational Necking Party at the annual Libbey Carnival, the proceeds of which were turned over to the Stadium Fund.

Many new members were taken in during the year, and we wish them the success that has been ours.

This past year witnessed a slight revolution in the type of program and the height of the endeavor of this organization.

Through the aid and advice tendered by a loyal alumni, the initiation ritual has assumed definite form. The movement of adopting policies which lend tradition to the organization was furthered by uplifting the standards of scholarship and moral development. This move was incorporated within the program by the introduction of prominent men and civic leaders as speakers.

The Q. D.-Zet. roast, first annual Alumni banquet, the second annual Q. D.-Zet. "shindig" (which was a lovely affair), the annual picnic and banquet were all a part of an enjoyable social season.

Incidentally, an athletic victory over the Forum upon the gridiron, plus a few informal initiations, also bring back memories of the 1930 Quill and Dagger Literary Society.

In the second semester, great strides were made in the organization toward standardizing several important functions and requirements of the club.

A new standard of scholarship, which will require all pledges to present a C-grade average before entrance to the club was an outstanding move.

A more complete and useful program has also been formulated for the regular meetings in which outside speakers are heard, a group of synthetic book reports are given, and either extemporaneous or prepared debates are given for the enlightenment of the group. The Q. D's are trying to lay a foundation of co-operation with the best educational policies and to make the club a recognized aid to its members in as many ways as possible.

MISS HAZEL BARTLEY

From the time the Utamara Art Society was first organized at Waite High School in nineteen hundred and twenty-one, until the present time, it has always been able to say that it has lived up to the theory of finding art in common, everyday life and its surroundings. When the Utamara was first formed at Waite, it was a guild of artists. They took charge of all the decorating for the dances, mass-meetings, parties, plays, and all other entertainments that required artistic skill and ability.

With the opening of Libbey in September, nineteen hundred and twenty-three, many members came from Waite with Miss Bartley, thus transporting the Utamara Society to Libbey.

The Utamara Art Society was named after the famous Japanese print maker, Utamaro. His artistic works are not only scarce and valuable but are noted as the finest examples of rhythmic lines from Japan.

Chief among the activities of the Utamara Society has been the study of Utamaro's work. Not only were they studied, but some real prints were obtained and inspected. It is partly the aim of this organization to uphold and live up to the principles of this man and his art. Then, too, there is the productive side of the society. The Utamara has not only produced posters for the carnival, but has furnished them for the advertisement of all activities which Libbey has sponsored. Also the art work of our publications is an example of the work and skill of many of the members of the club, and testifies to the spirit that is holding this society's place among the activities of Libbey.

The latest task of the Utamara is the study of everyday advertising through the use of posters, newspapers, magazines, and billboards, and by using nature as an aid in this line of work.

This club is proud to say that some of its former members are now engaged in art work gaining both honor and wealth. The Utamara has not only brought together the skilled art workers, but also the future skilled workers.

And now, by its co-operation with school affairs and activities, the Utamara has proven itself to be thoroughly interested in making Libbey not only noted for scholarship and athletics, but also for its output of artistic works and students. The two advisers, Miss Page and Miss Bartley, have been earnest, conscientious workers throughout the year, and we are greatly indebted to them.

The Biology Club has been in existence for the past three years. The purpose of the club is to interest its members in the nature they see about them. We aim to improve our powers of observation so that we may appreciate nature and obtain a better knowledge of living things. In order to make the meetings more interesting, we have tried to vary the type of program each time. At one of the most interesting meetings this year was a program in which Lew Klewer, of the Toledo Blade, gave a talk. The subject was his trip north this past winter and he illustrated his talk with moving pictures. Another program consisted of a delightful talk by Mr. Featherstone, on his trip to Colorado. This was also illustrated by moving pictures. Some of our meetings were held out of doors where we could study nature to the best advantage and many field trips have also been taken to interest the members. Three boys visited the filtration plant and reported to the society at the next meeting. They demonstrated to the group the way water is cleared and filtered. These are only a few examples of our many well-conducted programs, for each meeting held a store of variety and fun for everyone who attended. Although our club is comparatively new, we feel that we have done well in putting our purpose across to our members.

The purpose of Le Cercle Francais is to promote the interest of the French language for the students who are continuing the study of French, and for those who have dropped it. It is the aim of the club to have the business meetings and programs conducted entirely in French. This fact makes it doubly hard to work out interesting and novel ways to hold the attention of the members because of the varied ability to understand the conversations. Many members have had but one year of French; others have had from two to three years of study in the language; and many have not studied French for some time and have forgotten a good deal. Consequently, in preparing material for a meeting many hours of hard work are required by the participants. On the programs this year there have been short plays and dialogues which have been greatly enjoyed by the members. Some of the dialogues have been written and produced by members of the club. French songs and charades have helped to make the programs entertaining. One debate, entitled "Resolved: That Automobiles Have Proved to be More Helpful Than Harmful," was especially interesting.

At each meeting the numbers on the program are criticized by three judges as to presentation, interest, etc. The person whose number is chosen as the best is given a pin to wear for two weeks. This pin bought by Le Cercle Francais is awarded to increase the interest of the members.

One of the social events of the year was an afternoon dance which proved a great success. The club also sponsored an evening dance which was given the fifteenth of May. The annual get-together picnic was held at a lake in the Irish Hills. This is the one event of the year in which members are allowed to speak English.

The club pin is designed as the French flag in blue, white, and red, which signifies Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity.

Through the combined efforts of its able advisers, Miss Hatfield and Miss Krueger, the club has proved beneficial to all.

The object of the Home Economics Club is: to form a connecting link between the home and school; to train young women to be active and efficient leaders in the home and community life; to furnish an opportunity through organization for social life, such as programs, social gatherings, and picnics; and to stand for and promote high ideals and morals in Libbey High School.

This club is affiliated with a national society composed of like organizations, each striving for the same end. A feeling of pride is manifest because of this affiliation, and Libbey's chapter earnestly endeavors to uphold the standard set before them.

This year has been full of success for the club and entertainment for the members. The organization has taken many strides for the good of

A very important feature in the line of girls' activities is the Girls' Athletic Association. Every girl in the school is privileged to join if she so desires, for the club is not meant to be exclusive in any way. The purpose of the club is to develop a feeling of good sportsmanship—a thing that can be of much use to us in many phases of our everyday life.

Along with sportsmanship comes physical culture. There are many sports that go to make up our program, some of which are: volley ball, swimming, basket ball, baseball, and tennis. In the fall, teams are formed to be entered in the volley ball tournament. This is not an elimination tournament, but one in which the team winning the highest number of games is awarded the championship. This year, the Junior White Sox received the honors with a perfect record.

In the winter and first part of spring, an elimination tournament in basket ball is staged. As each team loses, it drops out of the race, leaving the last winner a champion.

Then last on our schedule are the basketball and tennis tournaments. The tennis and baseball, like basketball, are elimination tournaments.

The club meets on the second and fourth Thursdays of every month, and anyone who carries two or more commercial subjects is eligible to be recommended for membership.

This year there has been a variation of activities among which was the work on the carnival and a Christmas party. We substituted "Jungle Terrors" for our previous booth, called "Dante's Inferno" in the carnival, and judging by expressions of the victims, our effort at entertainment was quite a success.

At the Christmas party a very enjoyable time was had by all who were present. Some of our guests were Miss Feller, Miss McGuire and Miss Darby whom we were very pleased to entertain.

The Alchemist Society of Libbey High School has had a successful year in 1930. Moving pictures, talks given by the society members, and games have provided delightfully interesting programs.

For the Carnival, the Alchemists provided the Japanese Ball Rolling Contest.

The movie "Oxygen the Wonder Worker" sponsored by the Alchemist Society, was given in our auditorium on March 12, 1930.

Besides our own personal improvements, another issue of our organization is community service. We have worked hard and conducted our most successful carnival booth, having surpassed every other year.

Not neglecting our social functions, we have had several hikes and spreads. And every girl will remember always the solemn, impressive investiture service, during which we admitted our new members.

To close our year we had a banquet bidding farewell to our senior members.

MRS. PAULINE BURTON

The Latin Honor Society has always been one of the outstanding organizations of the school, not especially for its activities, but for the class of students represented in its membership roll. It is the only honorary society at Libbey, and to be elected to membership is a reward much desired by every Latin student.

In previous years all "A" Latin students were eligible to become members, but this year the rules of the society were reconstructed, and only those students receiving an A grade for two consecutive semesters and whose grade at any time in Latin does not fall below B are eligible. This has of course decreased the membership of the club, but it has raised the standard of the club even higher, for to receive this honor as a reward of continued good work rather than occasional effort is more to be valued.

Mrs. Burton is the faculty adviser, and officers and members are appointed by her, depending upon the grades received.

In the picture above it will be noticed that the two-year and four-year students are designated by the numeral after each name.

The Libbey Aviation Society, the purpose of which is to promote aviation in Libbey High School, has made remarkable progress since last September, the meetings being held on the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

The meetings are both educational and social. During the year we had as speakers, Mr. Flynn and Mr. Holmes of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, and also Mr. Grears and Mr. Caldwell of the Parks Air College of St. Louis.

Among our most pleasant memories of the year was the trip to the Detroit Aircraft Show and the building of the glider. On April 11th, the club was excused from school and went to the Detroit Airport. There the boys came in first-hand contact with the finest and latest aviation designs in the country. A few of them were the new Packard Diesel motor, the Fokker display, and the Ford display.

The glider which is being constructed by the Aeronautics class is expected to be completed by the close of school.

The success of the club is due to the interest taken by our advisers, Mr. Dipman and Mr. Sterling.

The name Philatelic comes from two Greek words, meaning "loving" and a "tax." Thus together they mean "fond of a tax," or since postage is nothing more than a tax, "stamps."

The purpose of the Philatelic Society is to promote an interest in stamp collecting and to make it possible for those who desire, to exchange stamps. It is a club which combines pleasure, and education; pleasure in the parties and spreads that are given, and education through the study of stamps. The educational value occurs especially in Greek and Egyptian history, for the student can form a fairly correct idea of the styles of architecture and art used in those countries by the illustrations on the stamps.

Looking back over the carnival work and various other activities, we believe that the Philatelic Society has had a successful year.

There has been considerable interest shown in the architectural work offered in school and the organization of the architectural club is the result of this interest manifested among the students. The purpose of the club is to stimulate the study among students and to advance the progress of architecture in the community. The members are encouraged by trips to various factories and buildings under construction, and by special speakers. Architectural contests and interesting reports are a part of the program, nor are the social activities neglected.

It is the object of the Architectural Club to bring about a meeting between student architects and professional architects, as the future of architecture can be greatly advanced by students coming in contact with those already in the profession.

Although the Architectural Club was organized this year, much has been accomplished and we may expect a bright future.

The Geyser

*As a geyser,
Intermittent, potential,
Are our activities.
In low, deep whisperings—
Subterranean half-hints,
Their coming is foreboded.
Then suddenly,
With rush of hidden power
The pent-up force escapes;
The air is filled with confusion—
Mild tumult—rare prism hues—
And dense clouds of vapor.
At length the stir subsides,
Languishes, and is done.
—A wisp of vapor—an iridescent pool,
And the strangely vacant air is left.*

The Carnival

What an exciting time we had as we helped to stage the seventh annual Libbey carnival! For several weeks we rushed all over Toledo and the country around, buying and begging all sorts of things, from canned pineapples to ship models, to sell or auction at the carnival. At last the great day drew near, and then we worked harder than ever before, hanging up signs and curtains, putting up seats, and arranging booths in which to display our wares.

Then, at about seven-thirty, the crowd began to arrive. Old and young they poured in the front doors to be swallowed up immediately in the confusion and excitement which reigned throughout the building. Little gooey-fingered and sticky-faced tots chased around, pursued by anxious mothers; young fellows on their first "date" blushed self-consciously and wondered what to say next; and occasionally one would see an old couple wandering around and smiling at the pranks of the youngsters.

Everywhere candy venders, clowns, and criers could be seen and heard shouting their wares and inviting the crowds to buy tickets to the many shows and entertainments. The Zet auctioneer wore himself out, shouting "Wottemi bid?"; the Peris sold great quantities of groceries and canned goods; and the shows in the auditorium, and the dances in the gymnasium were filled to overflowing. And down at the west end of the first floor one could buy excellent orangeade to quench that thirsty feeling common to all carnivals and picnics.

Those venturesome souls who were in search of thrills surely found them when, lured by blood-chilling signs and noises, they dared to enter Dante's Inferno. Then, too, aided by a little candle light and incense, a handsome sheik and a beautiful Indian princess, sponsored by the Edelian staff, told us some delightfully intriguing fortunes. The boxing show, also on the second floor, furnished a great deal of excitement to its spectators.

Those who came to the carnival looking for a good time surely were not disappointed, and it is with deepest gratitude that we think of those who attended the carnival or helped in any way to make it a success.

The Libbey band, composed of forty-five pieces and the largest in the city, has put "pep" into the mass meetings and football games throughout the entire year with the splendid cooperation of the school.

One evening last fall the band played at the Industrial Exposition under the direction of Mr. Sutphen. Later in the season several members of our organization were chosen to play with others selected from the Toledo High Schools under the directorship of Mr. Creatore. Our band offered its annual spring concert this season which was enthusiastically acclaimed by the school and the immediate community. Mr. Sutphen, with an ease which accompanies years of experience, led the band in a program of merit which consisted of "The Vagabond King," "The Mikado," "Scorpio Overture," and "The Bride of the Waves." A solo, "The Song of the Nests," played by our cornetist, Frank Austin; a clarinet duet, "Merriment Polka," played by Donald Jardine and Ted Long; a trio, and several spirited marches also added to the interest of the program.

The attractive blue and gold capes, donated to us through the generosity of Mr. Henry Page, were relined this year with silk and marked with the Libbey emblem. A mere "thank you" can not convey our feeling of gratitude toward our benefactor.

To Mr. Sutphen, our leader, we wish to express our deepest appreciation for the splendid training which we have received from him, both in actual playing and in the study of the excellent music which we have played throughout the year.

The first production of the year was "Up In The Air," a snappy two-act operetta of modern aviation. Thelma Fifer as "Betty," and Perry Wilson as "Harold," played the leading roles in a flawless fashion. Those taking other parts were: Irene Carr, Clarence Rupp, Tom Martin, Dorothy Blaser, Don Merrick, Carmen Lee, Barton Swartz, Ray Priest, Eleanor and Evelyn Krep-leever.

The second opera was given during school hours, and was enjoyed by many students. This one was called "College Days," a story of life on the campus. Thelma Fifer and Wilma Curtis took the leading feminine roles, and Perry Wilson and Herman

The third opera was "The Lass of Limerick Town," which was quite as successful as the first two. Dorothy Diller and Irene Carr were the two charming cousins around whom the plot of the story was woven. Don Merrick played the leading male role in a way which added much to his credit. Other roles were taken by: Phil Rohrbacher, Perry Wilson, Mary Ann Ward, Sarah Newnham, Barton Swartz, Gladys Willmont, John Harper, Ted Meier, Dick Myers, Raymond Matuszek, and Charles Henkel.

Altogether, the Glee Club, under the skillful guidance of C. R. Ball, has had a very successful year.

The Libbey Orchestra under the direction of Miss Bessie Werum has made excellent progress this year.

A splendid concert program was presented at the Art Museum, and it received much favorable newspaper comment from critics.

The students of Libbey had the opportunity of hearing the orchestra during a conference hour period in February.

At the annual concert in January the soloists were Margaret Baumgardner, piano; and Ruby Peinert, cello.

Each year the operettas given by the Glee Club are assisted by the orchestra. Splendid co-operation of Miss Werum, Mr. Ball and the students make these a success.

The orchestral training which the students receive during their years at Libbey proves very helpful. It is with sincere regret that we who have profited by this experience must now leave.

Alumni Association

The Libbey High Alumni Association was formed during the Christmas holidays of 1929. A banquet was held at Broadway M. E. Church, and all the Alumni Members of Libbey High were invited to attend. About 300 gathered together, and the organization was formed. According to a constitution which was submitted by a committee, two representatives were to be elected from each class. From these representatives were to be chosen a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer. No two officers were to be from the same class. As a result the following officers were elected: President, Lauren Culp, '26; Vice-President, Mildred Ramser, '27; Secretary, Dorothea Wrigley, '25; Treasurer, Burton Lang, '28.

Principal Harold E. Williams and Miss Gertrude Payne were appointed as advisers, and these along with the representatives and officers, formed what is known as the Alumni Executive Committee. This committee meets twice each month and carries on the business of the organization.

Anyone who is a graduate of Libbey High School is eligible for membership, and the dues are $1.00 per year, payable in advance. The purpose of the organization is to foster and encourage the interests of Libbey High School.

On the first of February there was held in the Libbey Gymnasium a dance for all Alumni Members and their friends. This was well attended and served as another get-together for everyone. A general meeting was held in March for the purpose of discussions and the transacting of business. Plans are being laid for a big home-coming during the football season next fall, as well as for another banquet in the spring.

Although the organization is still in its infancy, we hope to grow and to do much toward reuniting those with whom we were associated during four of the most important years of our lives.

Calendar

SEPTEMBER

- 9—School begins—Seniors rush for lockers.
- 10—Brayton's Mayflower beat Finrock's Puritan.
- 13—Courtney speaks opening the second stadium drive. Everyone starts off confident of success, but who'll win the tickets?
- 16—Phylliss Kuhnle and John Saalfeld were the lucky ticket sellers to win comps to Michigan-State game.
- 18—Great enthusiasm is shown by the Senior class as they practically leave school in a body to sell tickets.
- 19—The old fight spirit is pulling us nearer our goal.
- 20—Success ! ! ! Le Cercle Francais holds the first afternoon dance of year in gym. All set for the game tomorrow.
- 21—Libbey victorious over Tiffin 30—0.
- 24—Seniors' presidential candidates: Merrick, Florian, Beebe, and Link. May the best man win!
- 27—Cowboys victorious again! Libbey 18—Gary 12.

OCTOBER

- 3—Link elected Senior president. Willey elected Junior president.
- 4—Latin Honor Society held its first afternoon dance of the year.
- 5—Libbey victorious over Shaw 2—0; did we only have a fine time coming back on the train?
- 8—Bigger and better assignments.
- 10—Another one of Baker's famous tests!
- 12—Libbey downed Cedar Rapids 26—0. The Tri-Lit Dance, "The War Whoop," was a big success, and so were the football players from Iowa, "the state where the tall corn grows." We're all sympathizing with you, Larry.
- 14—We celebrated our fine victory with a mass meeting. The only thing lacking to our joy was the absence of our injured Larry.
- 15—We're anxious to see our Crystal. According to Dick, we're going to have a real peppy little magazine.
- 16—It isn't raining, but we've all got the blues.
- 17—We hear rumors that the French Club is going to have a roast soon.
- 18—Senior Class had their first meeting today.
- 19—We're proud of our Reserves, they gave us another victory—Libbey 13—Akron 0. Bring on Scott.
- 21—Blue Monday—and how?

OCTOBER—Continued

- 22—And still it rains ! ! !
 23—Our Crystal rained or rather snowed in today! We wish to offer our congratulations to the staff.
 25—Whoopee, no school!
 26—We meet the enemy and battle to a scoreless tie. Libbey 0—Scott 0. Who keeps the little brown jug?
 30—Bob Florian was awarded the Oberlin Scholarship. Hi-Y and Friendship Club hold a Halloween Party in the gym.

NOVEMBER

- 1—The Senior Class Play, "Loose Ankles," was a huge success. Another score for the "Workshop."
 2—No football game today.
 6—The day after the night before. The Peris appear glorious in their new sweaters.
 7—What great powers has a little mouse!
 9—Libbey 18—Port Huron 0.
 11—Half-day holiday. Try-outs for debating team. Another rainy day and Monday at that.
 12—Seniors meet their Waterloo in the college entrance exams.
 14—Preliminary meeting for carnival arrangements.
 15—Peris have charge of mass meeting for Waite game, and they put it over with their usual success.
 16—Are we only happy? Our Cowboys run rough-shod over Waite. Waite 0—Libbey 20. I wonder if after our snake dance there was one person in Toledo that didn't know Libbey won?
 "The Cowboy Round-Up" was a fine victory dance. We all got out our dimes and had a grand time. This last week has been a replica of the Deluvian period, but nothing daunts our spirits.
 18—The Deluvian period continues; now we need a Noah to build us an Ark.
 19—It didn't rain today, but we got our report cards so the tension has not been lessened.
 20—Another fine issue of the Crystal! First real snow of the year.
 21—Only twenty-seven more shopping days before Xmas.
 23—Libbey defeated Woodward 34—0. A few of us braved the cold to see the slaughter.
 25—We start collecting goods for the carnival.
 26—Surprise, surprise, for Mr. Williams. Thanks to the Faculty.
 27—More mass meetings! Watch out, Mr. Turkey, here we come, 2,000 strong!
 30—Libbey whipped Central 25—0.

DECEMBER

- 2—The home work rolls in.
- 3—More carnival arrangements.
- 5—You'd be surprised what the laugh of the demented mountain girl added to the mystery play, "The Giant Stairs."
- 13—More building permits! Our Carnival is ushered in with the usual drizzle, but our spirits are undampened.
- 16—"Remember to return your carnival tickets."
- 18—The Senior Friendship Club held another early morning chapel service.
- 19—Another fine number of the Crystal.
- 20—Senior Ring Party. The rings were beautiful, but let's not talk about the engraving and how they fit.

JANUARY

- 1—We resolve to make no more resolutions.
- 2—The grind recommences.
- 4—The Peri Dance went over with its usual success, but it seems that the Maumee River Yacht Club has been outgrown.
- 6—The Senior Prom Committee starts functioning.
- 7—Our happiness was rudely shattered by the announcement that exams begin Jan. 16.
- 10—Again we can offer our congratulations to Mr. Webster for his latest, "The Lottery Man." The cast is to be complimented.
- 14—According to reports, no one is studying for exams, but wait until the electric light bills arrive for January.
- 15—The 11th hour.
- 16—Exams begin. We expected the worst and got it.
- 20—These exams may be a good experiment, but we heartily wish they'd practice on some one else.
- 21—No more misery until June.
- 27—All back again and feeling more lazy than usual. We feel lonesome already without Judd, but in hope he has his usual good luck in college.
- 31—The Aeronautics blossomed out in vivid orange jackets. No danger as to their not being noticed.

FEBRUARY

- 4—You were a little late, Q. D.'s, but your jackets sure are classy. More trouble keeping them from the girl friends.
- 10—Orchestra gave a fine concert at conference. We're real proud of Ruby and know we'll be ably represented at the National High School Orchestra Convention.

FEBRUARY—Continued

- 11—Good behavior is requited—just ask the Senior girls for information. They surely enjoyed the afternoon off.
- 12—We're grateful, "Abe."
- 13—There seems to be a whiff of spring in the air. We're hopeful.
- 15—The J-Hop went off with a snap as usual. Of course, the yoh-yohs added to the dignity of the dance.
- 18—Mr. Meek gave us an interesting talk on Lincoln this morning.
- 19—This spring weather is so inspiring that we feel equal to looking at some spring catalogues.
- 21—The Scott J-Hop might almost be called a Scott-Libbey Jig. All of the Who's Who of Libbey were there.
- 22—How could you, George? We're so disappointed in you—Saturday! !
- 24—Despite all predictions of the weatherman for colder weather, our balmy days continue.
- 27—First announcements were made to Juniors and Seniors about the Edelian this morning.
- 28—Q. D. Jackets look slightly soiled. They lose their charm.

MARCH

- 2—We surely enjoyed the Junior-Senior Mixer.
- 5—Day of doom—unsats!
- 7—Libbey was well represented at the Garden of Roses Dance which turned out to be a grand march.
- 8—The Q. D.—Zet Dance was a glorious success, but we wonder why the Q. D.'s subordinated themselves to such an extent.
- 10—St. Patrick's Day isn't until March 17, Zets, but we like those vivid green jackets.
- 11—Miracle! No society appeared with new jackets, sweaters, or other wearing apparel.
- 14—Those who attended the Moss Gardens Dance were glad to dance on their dime.
- 17—Seniors are beginning to clean house early this year.
- 19—Another snappy number of the Crystal.
- 20—Dr. Ries, an eighty-year-old gentleman who appeared not over fifty, addressed the boys on "How To Keep Young."
- 21—The Senior Class sponsored an afternoon dance in the gym.
Our Peris a-visiting went to see their sisters at Scott.
- 25—The Senior Friendship Club entertained our basketball team at a dinner.
- 26—The Juniors and Seniors were fortunate enough to hear Mr. Harold Dodge of New York address the school.
- 27—This may be spring weather, but the blizzard surely had us puzzled.

APRIL

- 2—Bigger and better rush parties!
- 4—Still Baker's tests make us feel dizzy.
- 8—Another state exam in grammar.
- 9—We saw "The Far Call."
- 10—Just a few more tickets to dispose of—Senior Prom and "Seventh Heaven."
- 11—Vacation might just have well begun today as far as any progress in school work was concerned.
- 14-18—Spring Vacation!
- 21—We're glad to be back? Well—maybe.
- 25-26—Although this is the first time a high school ever attempted to produce "Seventh Heaven," we were confident that Mr. Webster would make it a success. Congratulations, cast!

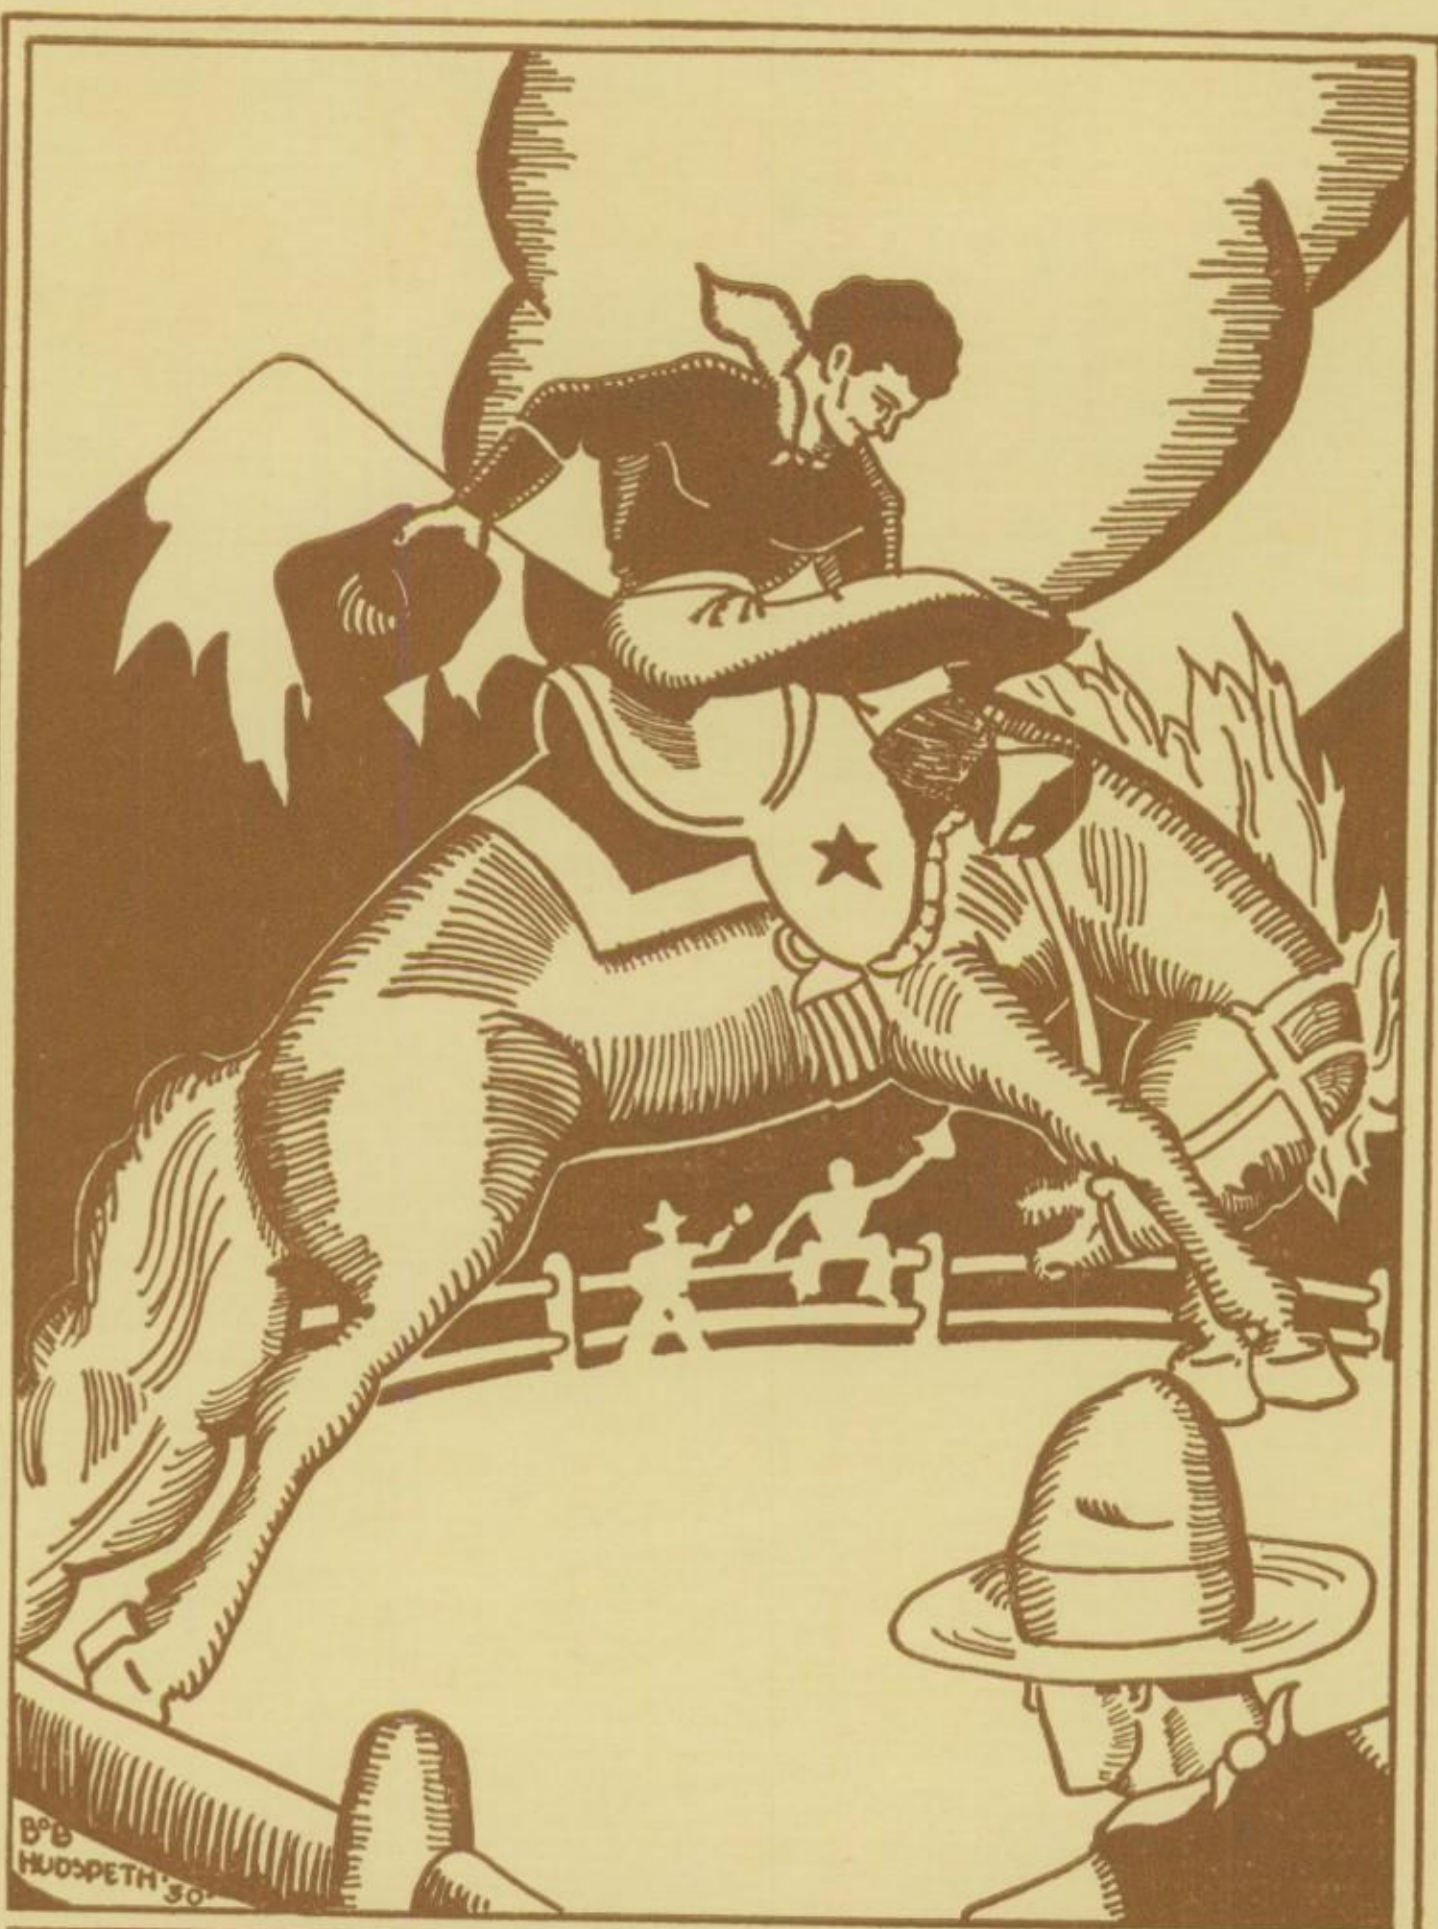

MAY

- 2—The Senior Prom was just like the Seniors—the biggest yet.
- 7—The goal heaves into sight.
- 10—More tiresome days.
- 14—Would you believe it? Some teachers are counting the hours until they receive their pay-checks.
- 15—Senior girls were seen downtown buying their Banquet dresses.
- 24—The Seniors received their Annuals at their Banquet which was held in the Richardson Building.
- 28—Again—The Industrial Arts Exhibition.

JUNE

- 1—We could be happy—but those exams!
- 2—Senior picnic. The end draws nigh.
- 8—Baccalaureate—Church at least once a year.
- 11—A red letter day—Commencement.
- 13—Another finished. Excursion to Cedar Point.

*The vivid crash of colors—
Glaring reds, bright golds, deep browns,
And the brilliant crystal azure overhead.
The din confuses our ears;
Yells of the cowboys,
Cheers of the excited crowd,
Raucous cries of venders.
The stir is madly contagious;
We feel the tense atmosphere—
Thrill to the feats of the riders—
Utter our loud encouragement.
This is youth, strength,
Courage, skill,

The Athletic Council

The guiding influence in the development of our athletic program is the Athletic Council. Mr. Williams, our principal, is aided by Mr. Lawson, Mr. Smith, Mr. Houser, Mr. Toepfer, and Mr. Stapleton, in making final decisions on all matters pertaining to the athletic policy such as: making of awards, schedule making, selection of coaches, and buying of equipment. Through the council everyone is made to feel that it is his privilege and his duty to share in the designing and execution of our athletic program. It is the aim of the council to keep the welfare of the school as its foremost objective.

MR. GEORGE N. LAWSON

MR. HARRY STAPLETON

Faculty Managers

When you are enjoying yourself in an interesting athletic contest, you are apt to disregard the fact that other mediums besides those in the public eye are necessary to the arrangement of that spectacle for you.

Mr. Lawson is one of those whose real magnitude is not widely known. As the Faculty Manager of athletics he must promote, with the aid of the administrative body, all affairs with outside schools and provide negotiations suitable to both. His position is one of no little responsibility, and we are indeed fortunate in having Mr. Lawson act in that capacity.

While speaking of the athletic administrators, one always associates Mr. Stapleton among them. He has been a part of Libbey's athletic program since his high school career. His ability to size up a situation quickly and remedy it faultlessly is the reason "Harry" has become one of the "main cogs in our athletic engine."

The Coaches

Our coaches occupy an interesting position in the school and exert a powerful influence which extends beyond the football field and affects the morale of the entire student body and, to a lesser degree, the immediate community.

We are indeed most fortunate in having at the head of our coaching body, Mr. C. F. Houser. As the chief coach of our gridiron teams "Chip" has an enviable record, one marked with success and accomplishments. Moreover, he has spent endless hours in developing for our school a team deserving of its reputation, and undoubtedly, he has succeeded to the highest degree in the undertaking. Mr. Houser maintains the respect and esteem of the boys under his tutelage by creating an example worthy of his immense following.

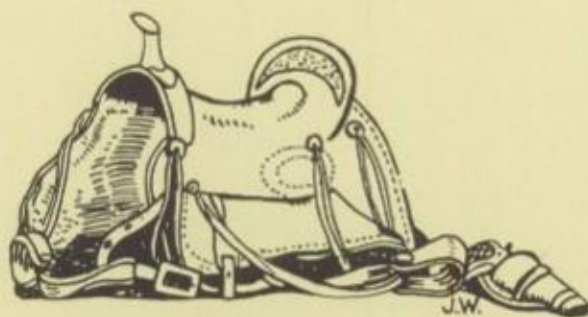

Turning to the basketball court, we find Coach H. Rice proficiently instructing the boys interested in this sport. Mr. Rice has that admirable faculty of making the fellows "give the best they have, every minute of every game." In addition to his basketball assignments, "Hod" assists in the forming of Libbey's "famous" lines, and because of his wide experience has proved an invaluable aid to our staff of mentors.

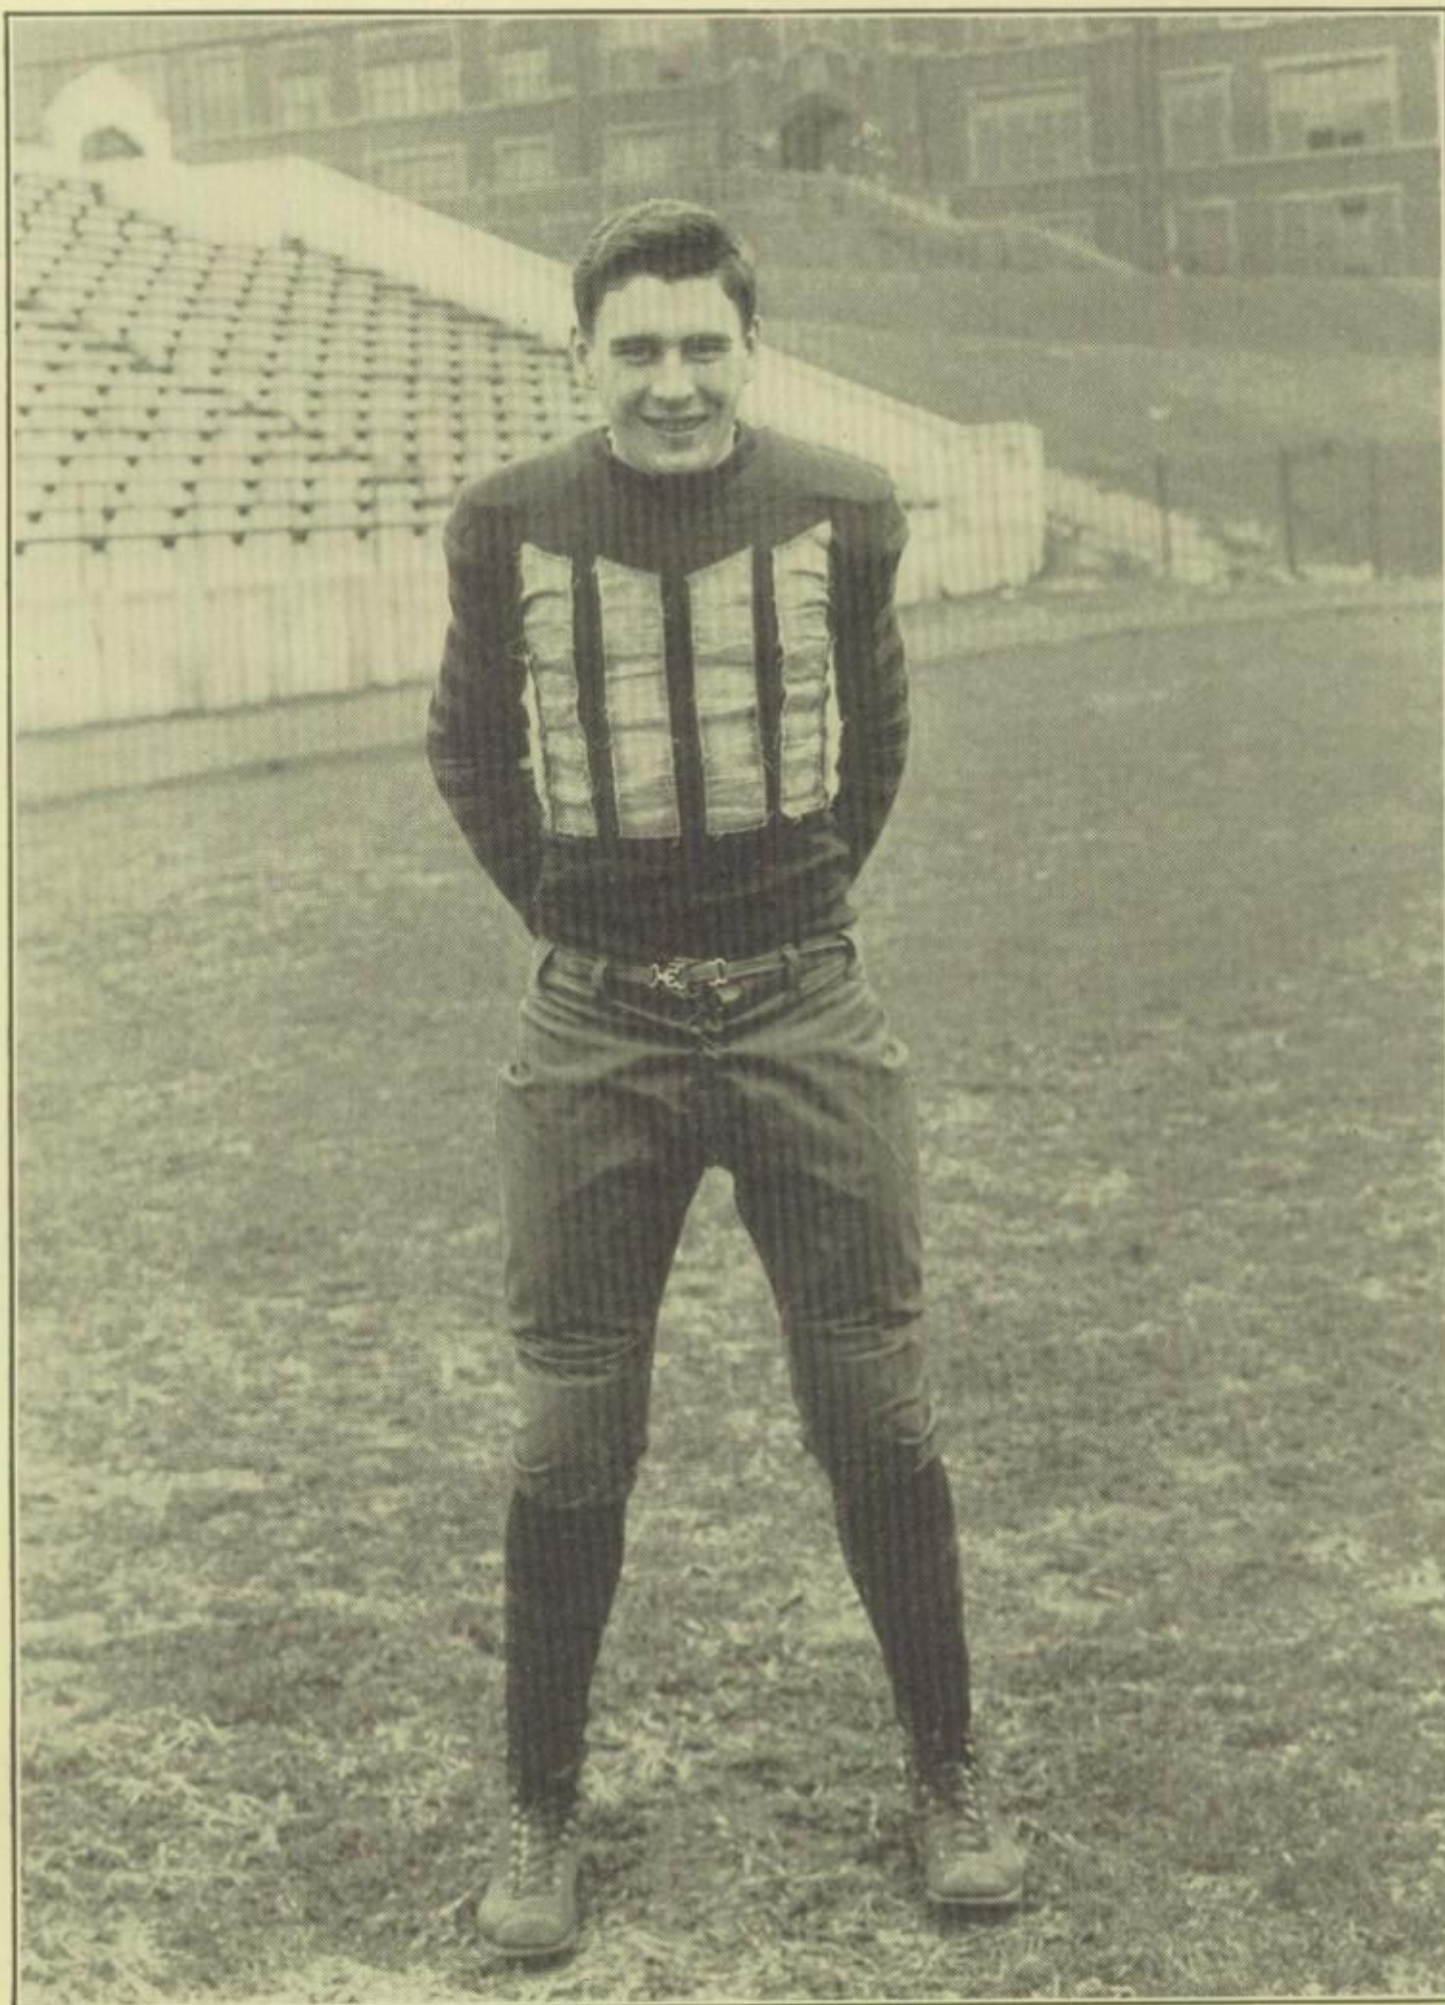

Mr. Harding as a member of the staff is deserving of no less an amount of acclaim. His advice and knowledge of the sport, delivered in an impressive manner to the candidates of the team, are large factors in aiding the squad to reach the heights they always attain.

Coach Lynn, in developing the reserve strength of our varsity, has put forth a team which stands out in itself. Several of his boys in the early season were transferred to the varsity, thus proving the value of Mr. Lynn to our coaching body. His cohorts were not given many opportunities to present their class which was, nevertheless, very much in evidence.

Mr. Gladdke is another addition to our staff of coaches and has immediately proved his worth by developing a line well nigh impregnable. The boys show a tendency to work for "Artie" and we surely expect big things from him in the future.

Within The Cowboys' Corral

Libbey opened its most arduous schedule by playing host to Columbian High of Tiffin. We defeated them but were the only team to accomplish the task during the season, as they later captured the co-championship of their respective league.

In our second game we were called upon to meet what was probably the most gruelling of them all—Horace Mann, of Gary, Indiana. They presented a team larger than ours, but lacked the fight and determination of our aggregation. Incidentally, we were the only team to besmirch the record of the Hoosiers, who sailed through, eventually, to a state championship.

Our next game called for a trip to Cleveland, to engage Shaw High. The change of atmosphere had little effect upon our fellows as they proceeded to keep our seasonal slate clean.

Washington High, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, proved to be our next victim. Having defeated Toledo teams in the past, the Iowans were more than confident. However, they figured without their opposition who later sent them home smarting under their worst defeat in eleven years.

Then came the "Wild Cats" of Akron Central, who were forced to taste defeat after a typical Libbey-Akron game.

Next appeared Scott—our traditional rival. Unfortunately both teams were too evenly matched, and the ensuing game, probably the most bitterly contested in the school's history, was played to a scoreless tie; thus leaving the only stain upon an otherwise perfect record.

We then traveled across the Maumee, to engage our old "nemesis" Waite. Our representatives, after giving everything they had, emerged victorious, the first time in five years.

The following week-end brought us another intra-city foe in Woodward. Lady Luck again smiled upon our fellows.

Then because of our past record, we were challenged to a post-season game by the Catholic champions of the city, Central High. They presented a well-balanced team, but one not good enough to "ride" our "cowboys."

Amid the gracious applause due victory, we closed the season in which we had been led by our captain "Vince" Falkenburg, who has the unique record of having received all-city honor for the past two years and recognition as Libbey's most valuable player.

DADS DAY*MERRICK

Don was an all-important cog in this year's machine. He performed equally well upon both offense and defense, and this quality of consistency, plus an abnormal supply of fire and fight, placed him upon the all-city team.

WILHELM

"Lenny" will be sorely missed when next season rolls around. His ability to pass, run, or kick equally well always made the team a scoring threat, while his good nature and indomitable spirit up-held the morale of the team. Lenny was also awarded all-city honors.

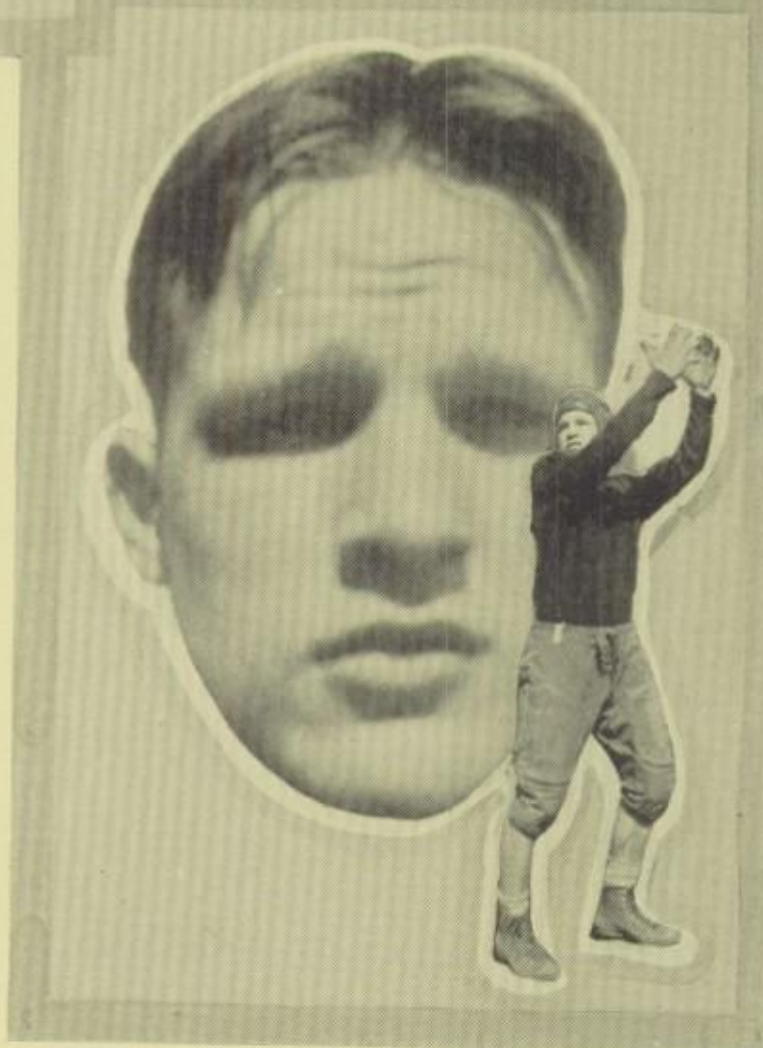

LIBBEY-SCOTT

SEVERANCE

Leroy pulled us out of many an embarrassing position with his ability to kick the ball. It was never known when "Lon" would break loose, adding to the discomforts of the opposing team.

JOHNSON

A fellow who played football because he liked it, Clyde started to make his name upon the gridiron early in the season and finished in a blaze of glory with membership on the all-city team. He was a mighty valuable man in the pinches because he always came thru.

NOONAN

Larry, playing his second year, did a great job at end until the Cedar Rapids game, when his arm was broken. Although he was very light, he was a vicious tackler and a very good receiver of forward passes. Larry always gave his best and was greatly missed the rest of the season.

KESSLER

"Tiny" is unusually speedy for a big man and consequently may be found in the midst of every play. He gave the fans a treat in the Scott game by dragging down the runner before he was really started. "Kess." your style of play warranted you that all-city guard position.

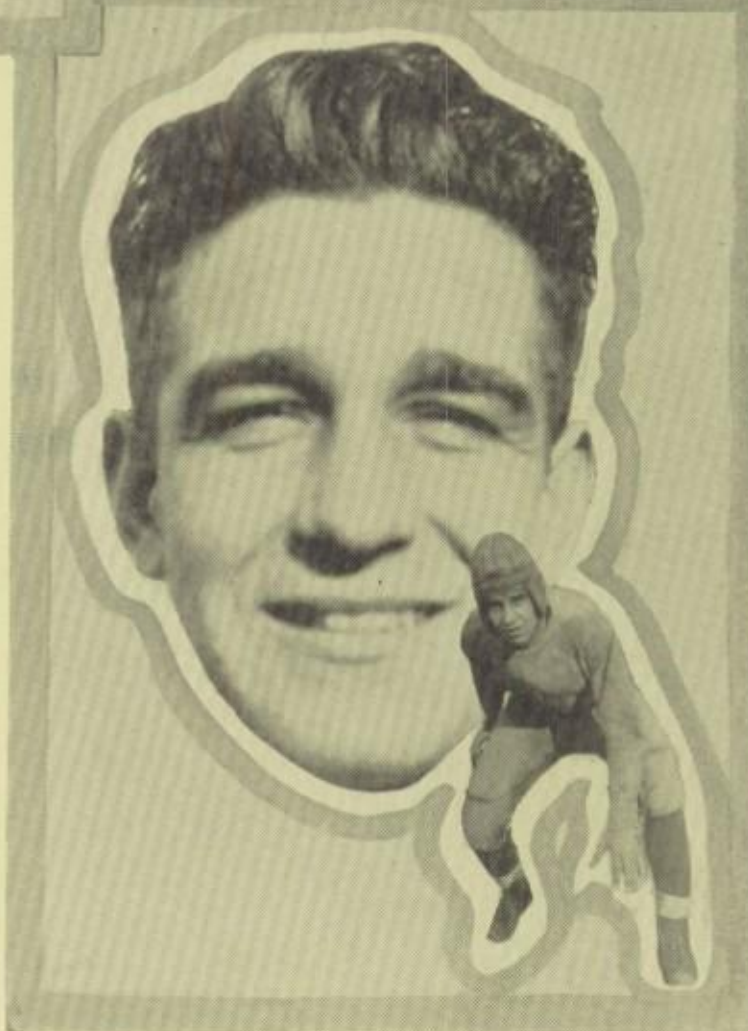

ROOTERS

ZALUSKY

In Henry we find another reason why the center of the line was so well-balanced and strong. He is of the temperament that needs no stimulant in order to be aroused. He, also, leaves us, not to be forgotten.

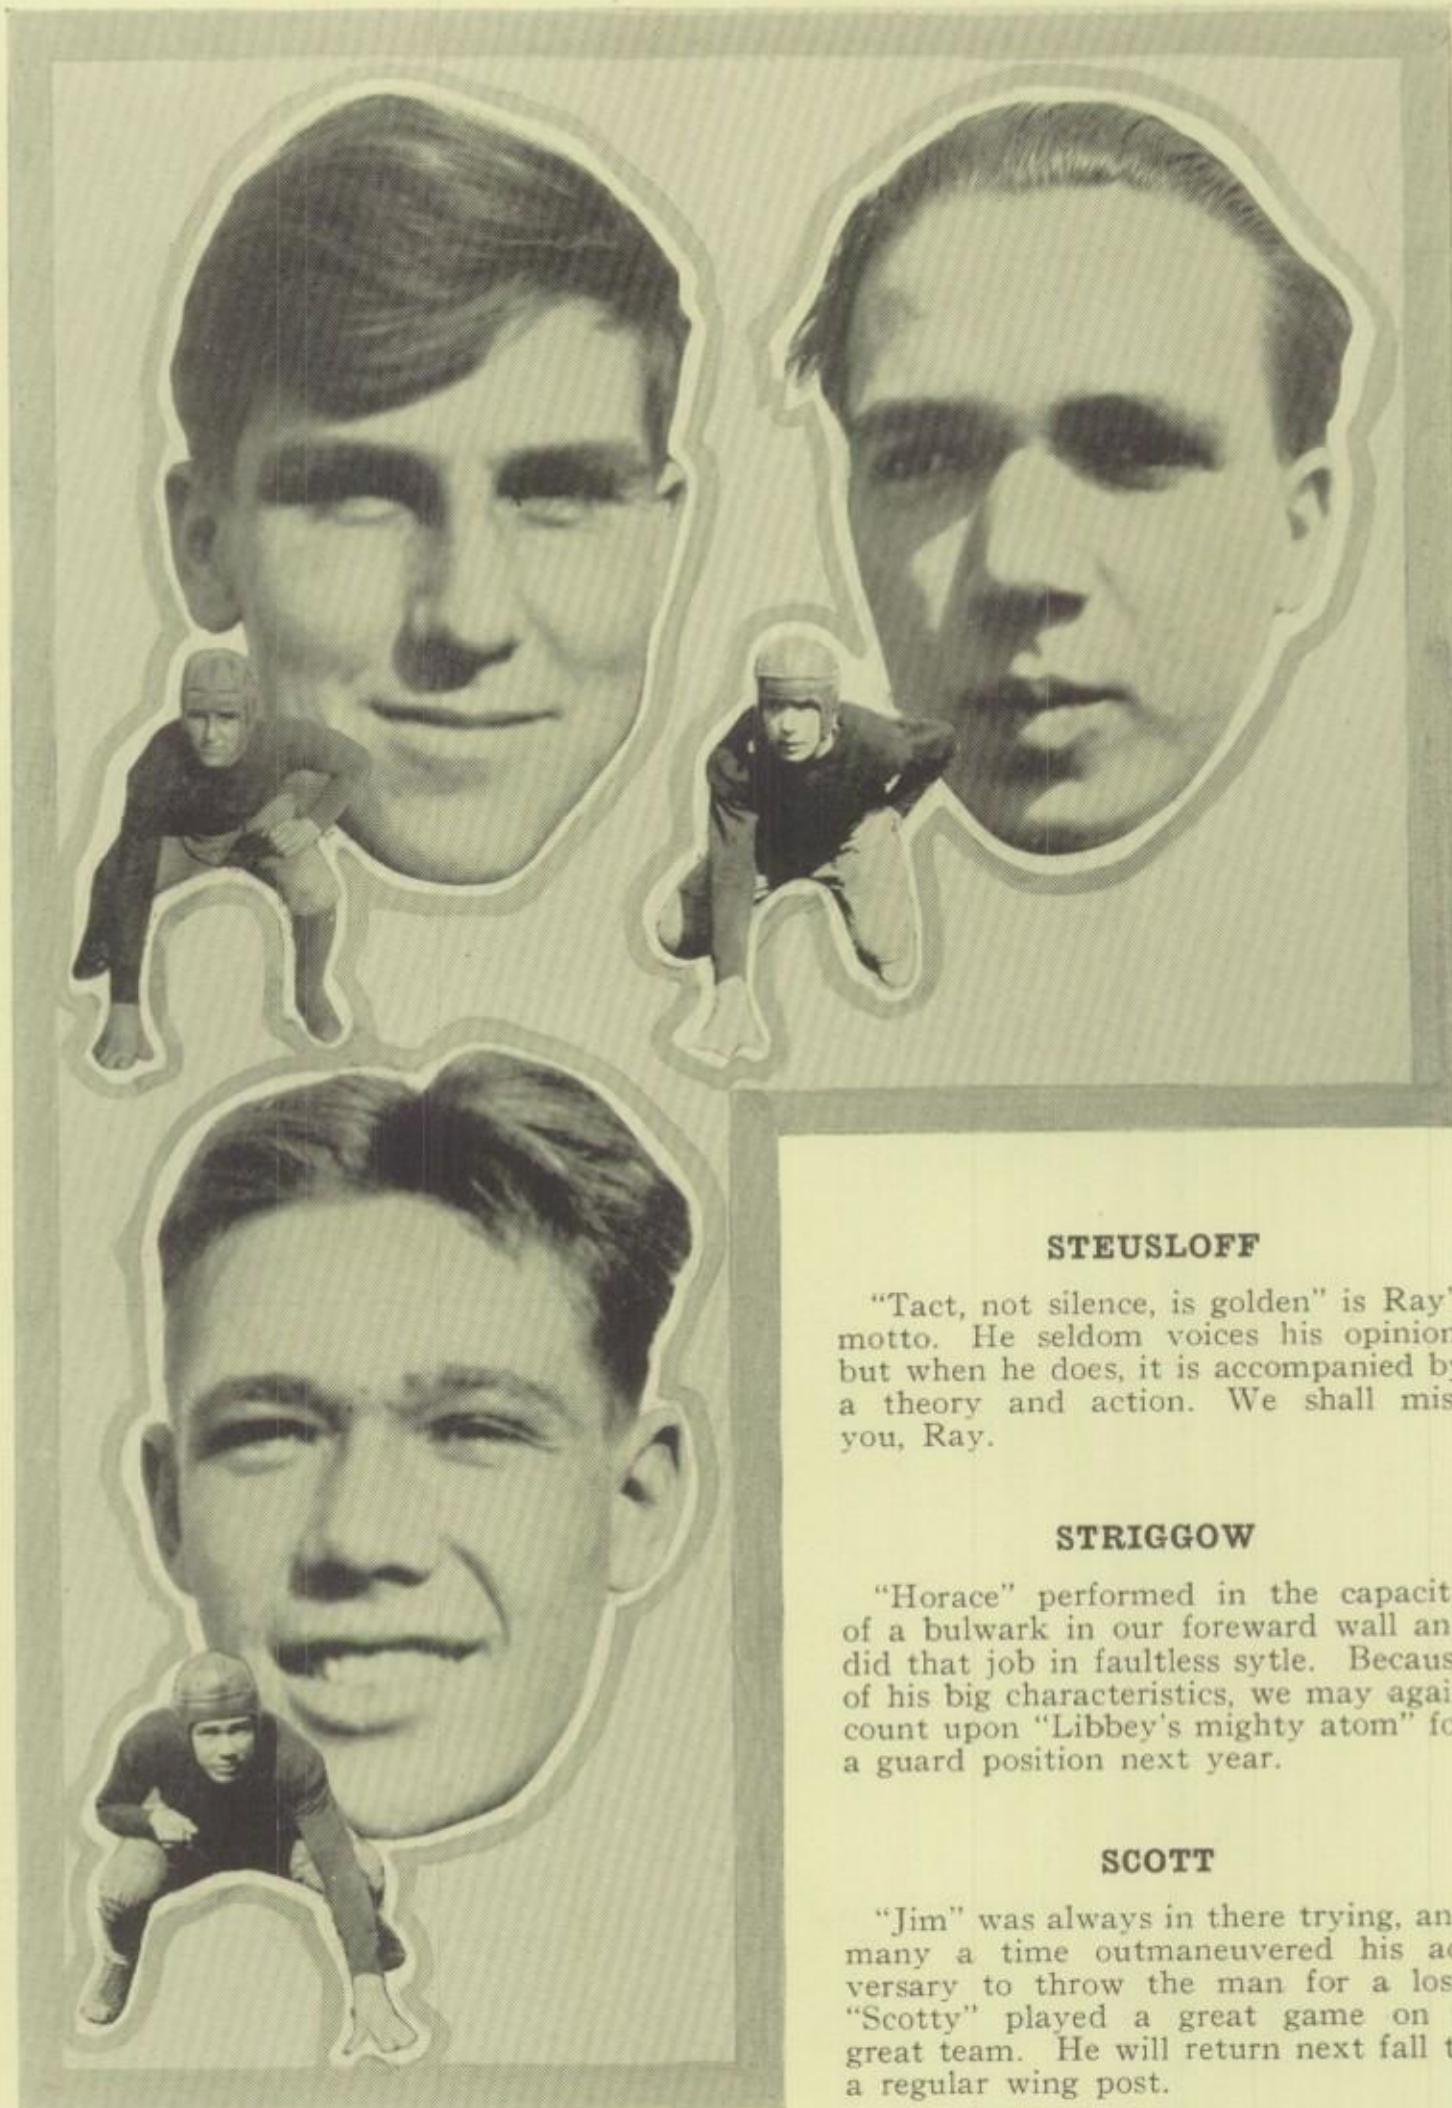

SHEPHERD

The fact that "Dynamite comes in small packages" was proved doubly true thru Tony's style of play. He wasn't so massive, but when he tackled a man, he brought him down.

STEUSLOFF

"Tact, not silence, is golden" is Ray's motto. He seldom voices his opinion, but when he does, it is accompanied by a theory and action. We shall miss you, Ray.

STRIGGOW

"Horace" performed in the capacity of a bulwark in our forward wall and did that job in faultless style. Because of his big characteristics, we may again count upon "Libbey's mighty atom" for a guard position next year.

SCOTT

"Jim" was always in there trying, and many a time outmaneuvered his adversary to throw the man for a loss. "Scotty" played a great game on a great team. He will return next fall to a regular wing post.

WILLEY

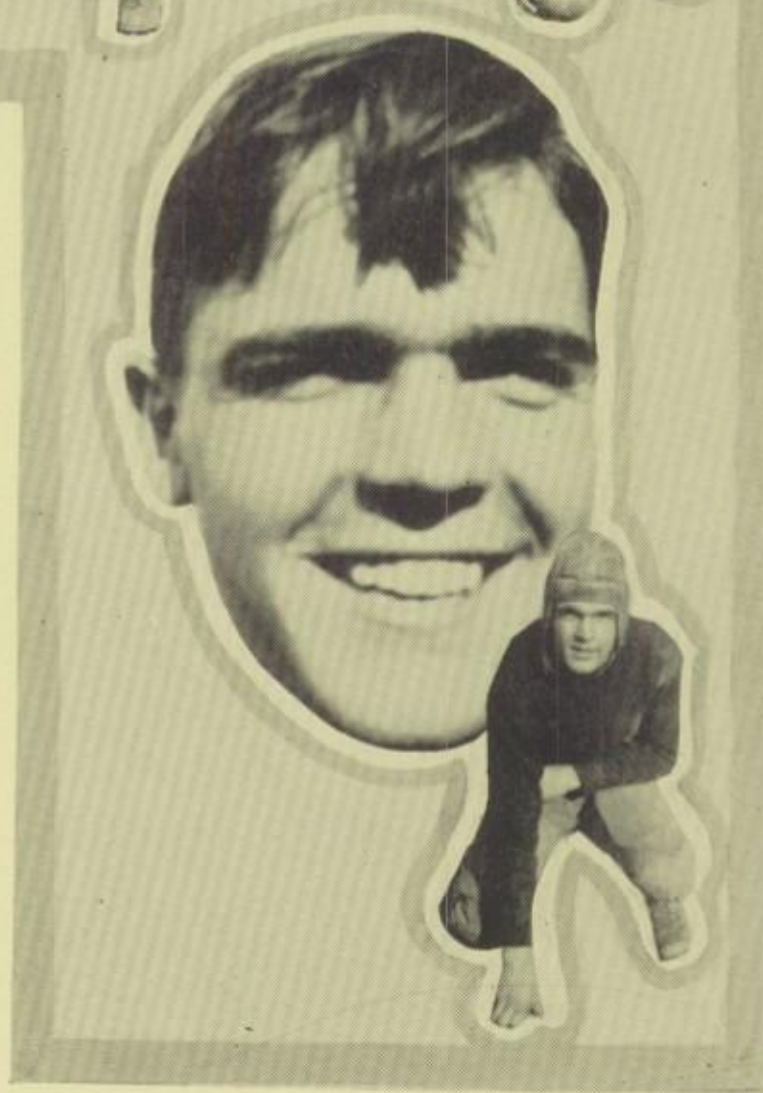

This diminutive player never failed to bring the crowd to their feet, by his dazzling speed and his battle against almost unsurmountable odds. Merlyn returns next year to aid in forming another "winner."

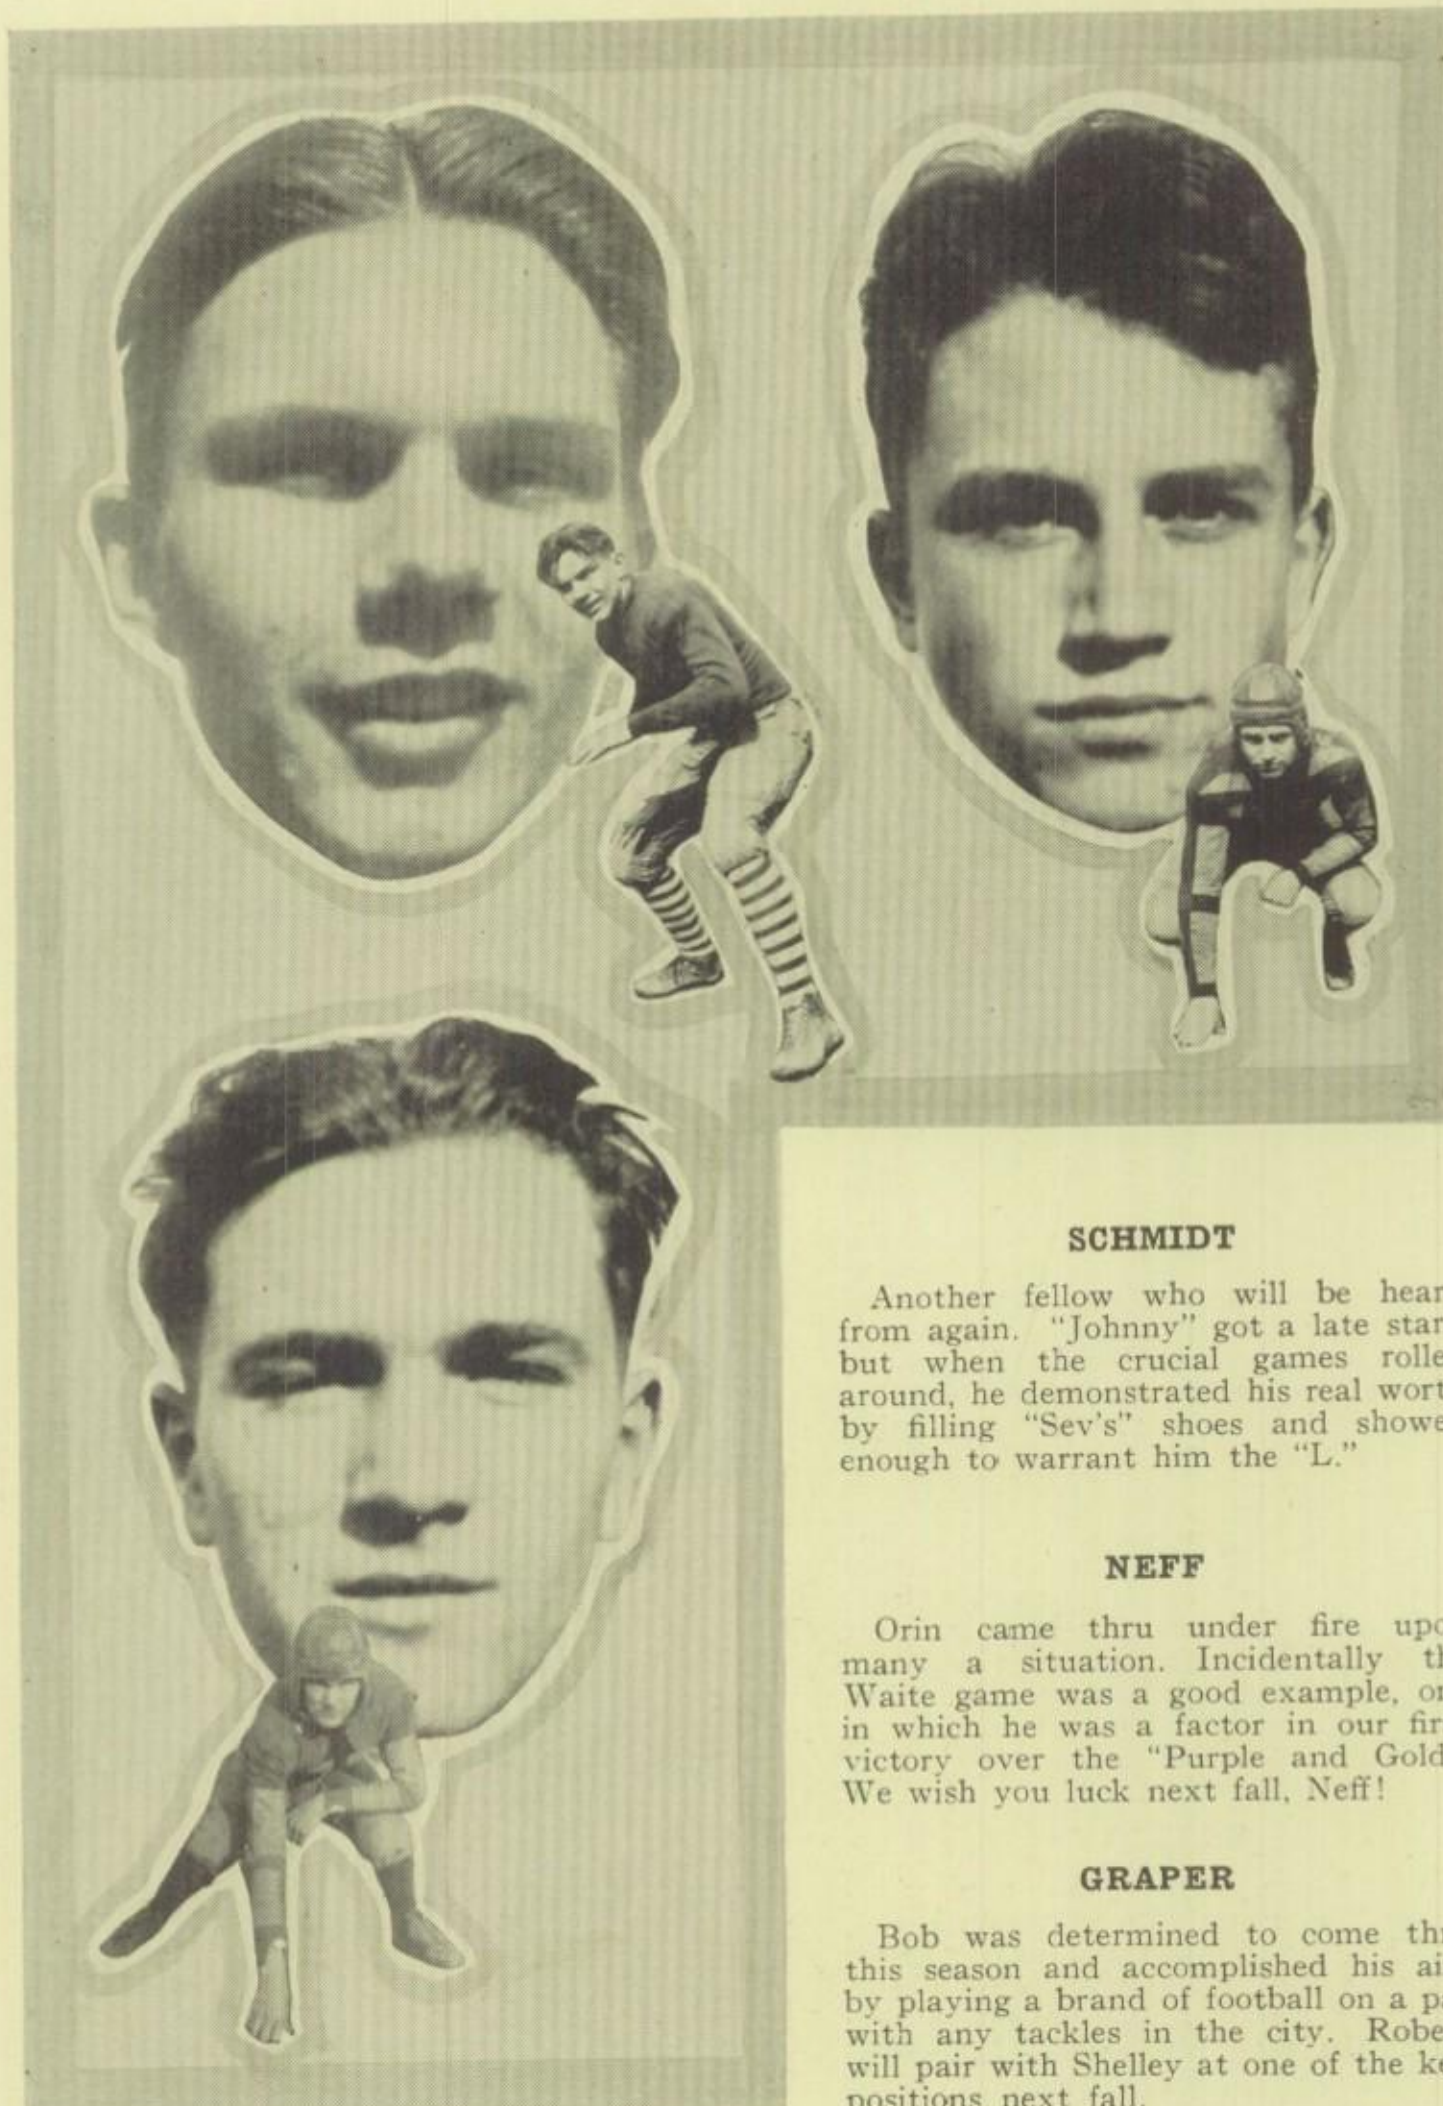

HEYMAN

"Joe" was changed frequently from one position to another. Nevertheless because of his ever aggressive attitude, he always made his presence felt. Heyman will come back to assume a regular "snapper" job next year.

SHELLEY

"Chuck" made quite a lot of plans before the actual playing season began, and he carried them out in a manner boding evil for men on the other side of the line. This attribute, plus something above the shoulders, assures Libbey of one tackle position next fall.

SCHMIDT

Another fellow who will be heard from again. "Johnny" got a late start, but when the crucial games rolled around, he demonstrated his real worth by filling "Sev's" shoes and showed enough to warrant him the "L."

NEFF

Orin came thru under fire upon many a situation. Incidentally the Waite game was a good example, one in which he was a factor in our first victory over the "Purple and Gold." We wish you luck next fall, Neff!

GRAPER

Bob was determined to come thru this season and accomplished his aim by playing a brand of football on a par with any tackles in the city. Robert will pair with Shelley at one of the key positions next fall.

Varsity Basket-ball

The progress of Libbey's cage performers this year was of a varied nature. Ably coached by Mr. Rice, the team worked diligently to complete a rather arduous schedule.

Contrary to the usual form, this year's aggregation showed a tendency to perform best upon opponents' courts. This trait was best shown during the "barnstorming" trip taken through Iowa while Christmas vacation was in session. On this unique venture Libbey engaged in five games, meeting the best of the Western schools. After dropping the first game to Moline, Ill., our team proceeded to trounce Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield and Waterloo, all of Iowa. The team, by its performances, has created a wholesome respect for the name of Libbey in that section of the country.

A synopsis of the Intra-City games reveals the fact that our Cowboys were defeated by Central, Waite, Scott, and Woodward, leaving only the St. Johns' tussle on the right side of the ledger. However the face value of this record is not indicative of the real ability possessed by our team. Every game was battled up to the last minute and the margin of defeat was very low. The game with the Jesuits seemed to mark a turning point in our season, as the results in after games showed.

The finale of our season found us in the sectional tournament held at Defiance. In their first encounter Libbey met and defeated Liberty Center. By virtue of this victory we advanced to the second round to meet our city conqueror, Waite, which we eliminated. The Bowling Green encounter was next, and Libbey again emerged victorious. In the final game for the sectional championship Bryan defeated us, and in the district tournament that followed, Libbey was paired with Findlay, easily the best representative of the northwestern district. We were defeated by Findlay after staging what was in the minds of most of the spectators, "the game of the tournament."

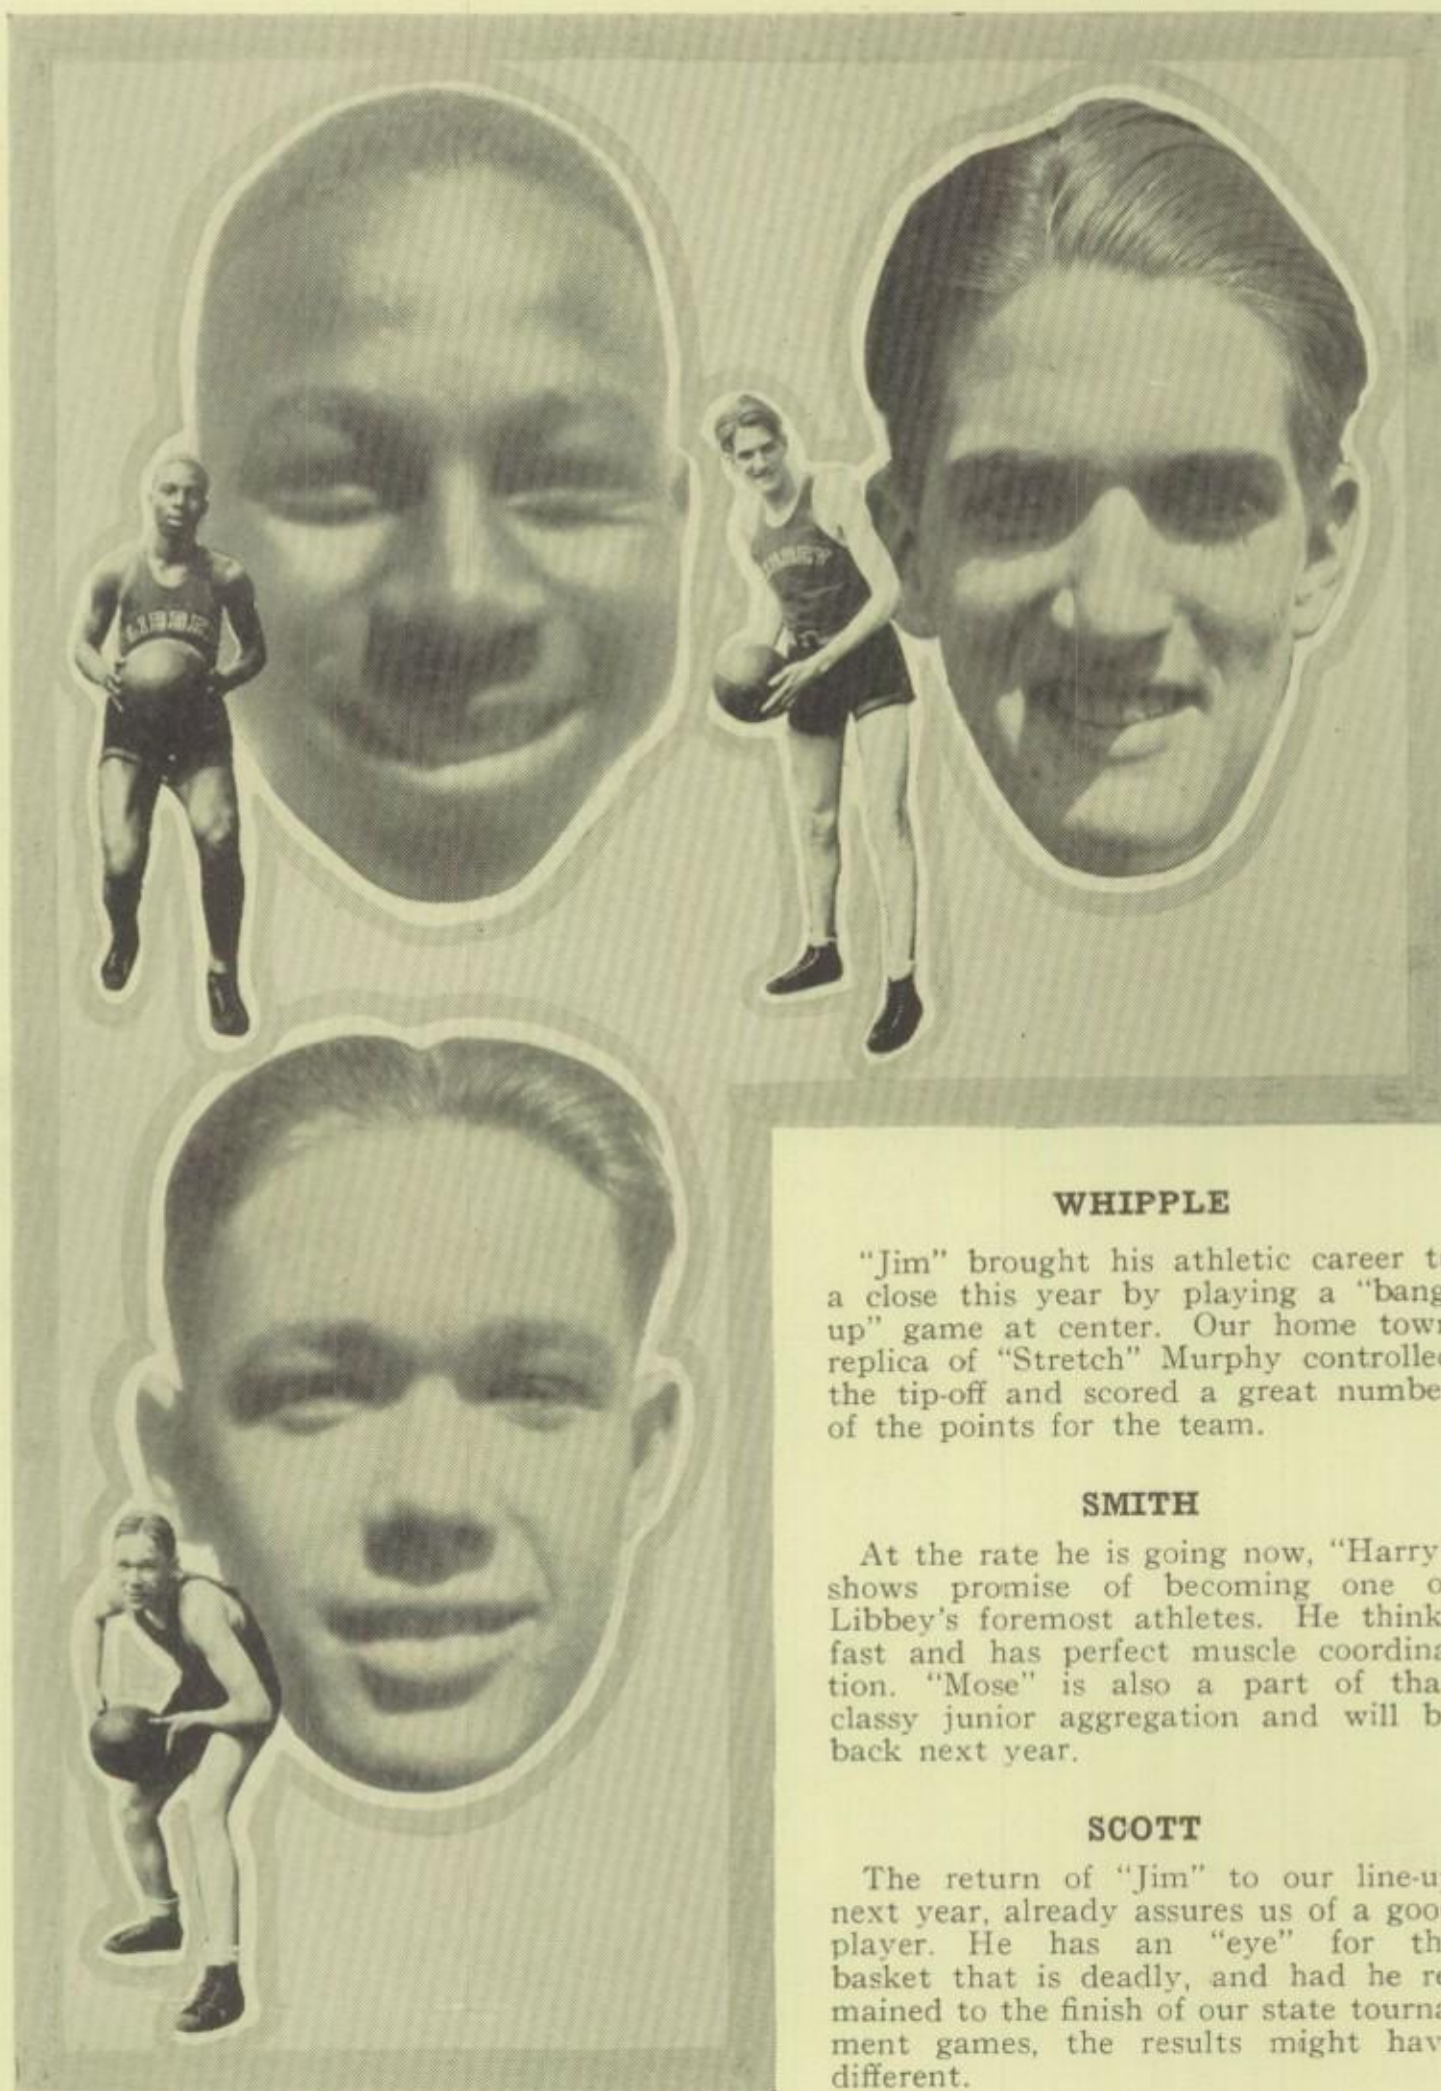

Our schedule also called for annual games with outside opponents. We defeated Morenci, Archbold, Kunkle, Alumni, and Middletown, and lost to Tiffin and Hamilton.

In his last year, "Lenny" Wilhelm was placed in the annals of Libbey as the captain of the 1930 basket-ball team. Throughout the season "Len" played a steady game at the guard position. His perfect handling of the ball many times ended in a Libbey score.

WHIPPLE

"Jim" brought his athletic career to a close this year by playing a "bang-up" game at center. Our home town replica of "Stretch" Murphy controlled the tip-off and scored a great number of the points for the team.

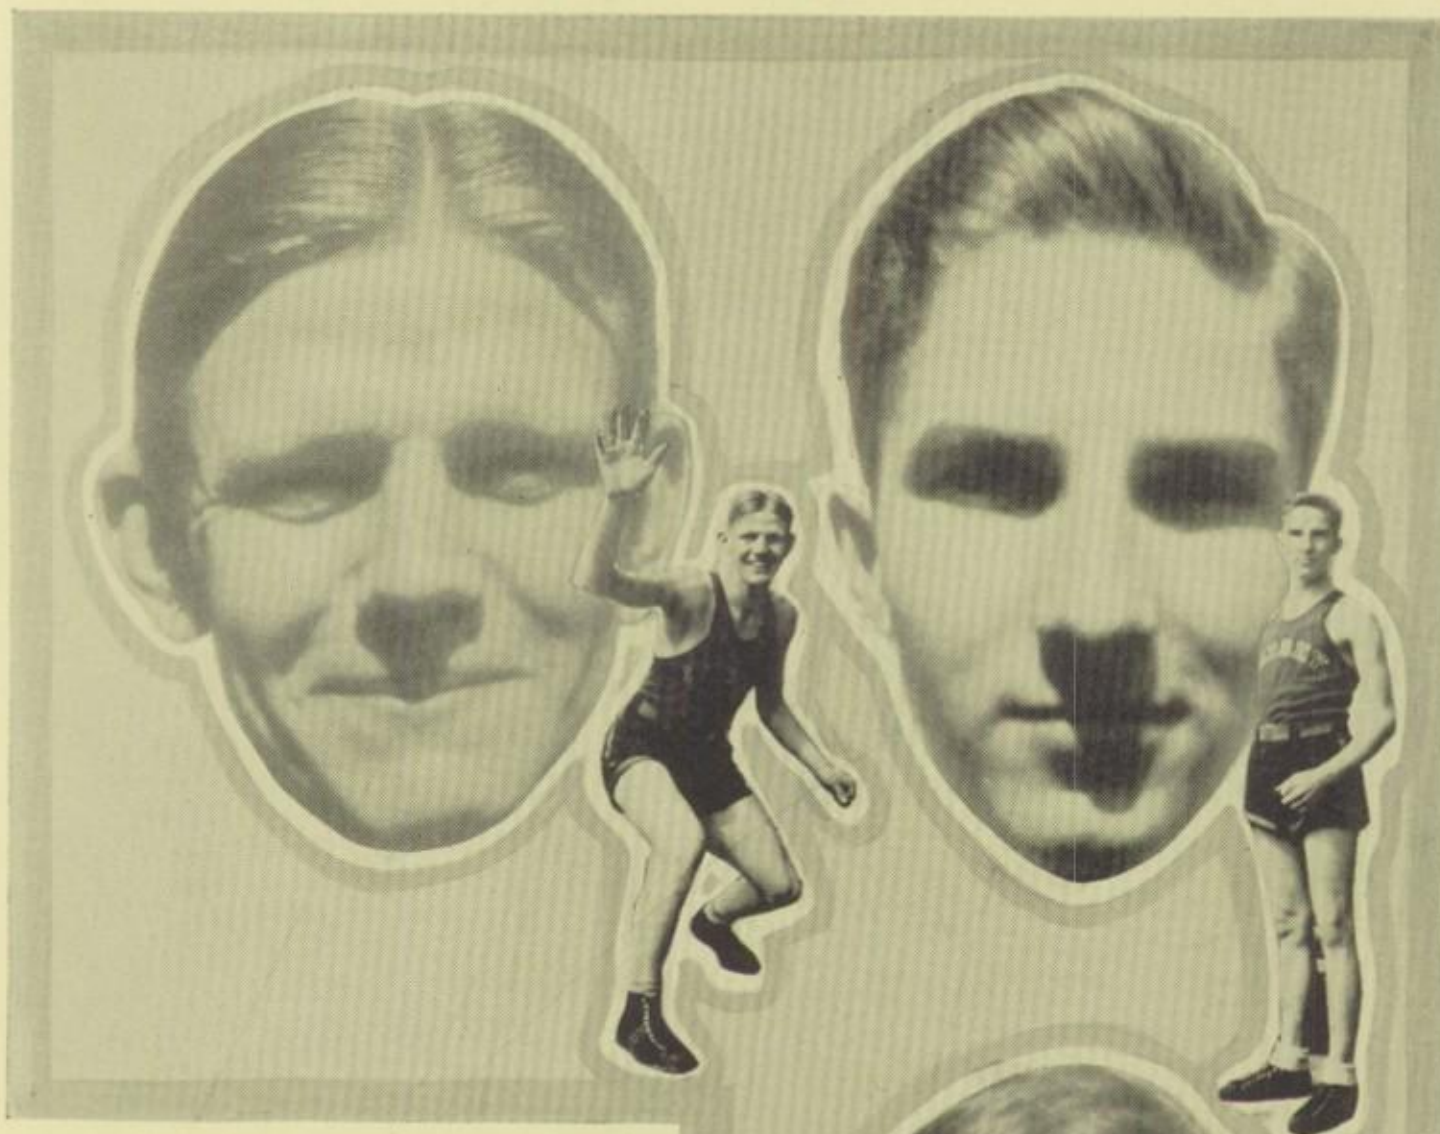

SMITH

At the rate he is going now, "Harry" shows promise of becoming one of Libbey's foremost athletes. He thinks fast and has perfect muscle coordination. "Mose" is also a part of that classy junior aggregation and will be back next year.

SCOTT

The return of "Jim" to our line-up next year, already assures us of a good player. He has an "eye" for the basket that is deadly, and had he remained to the finish of our state tournament games, the results might have different.

RAPPARLIE

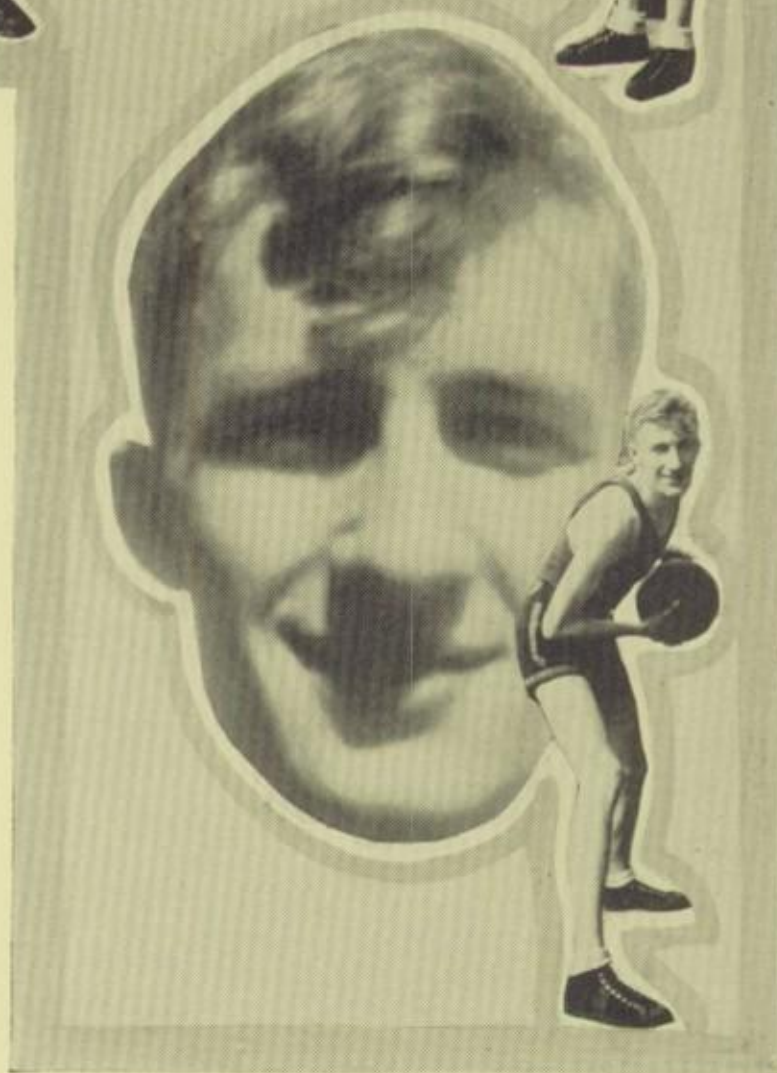

John is probably the best offensive guard in the city. He has the ability to take the ball into scoring position by a fast dribble, is a fine team worker, and "plays for Libbey." John will be back to "carry on" next year.

SCHMUHL

Carl was also a recruit from last year's reserve squad. He began practicing for this year's team long before candidates were called. It is this diligence and fine spirit that will enable him to win another place next year.

LEWINSKI

"Bob" is a fine floor man and an excellent shot, even though he suffered a "slump" towards the end of the season. His good nature was a valuable asset to the team and we should like to see him stay, for this is his last year as a Libbey student.

PFEIFER

Whatever "Pie" lacked in size, he made up in sheer aggressiveness. He is also good offensively and is "nifty" on his feet. George plans to make next year his biggest one, and we want him to know that we wish him success.

LENGYEL

It is very unusual for a fellow of Joe's size coming out in his senior year to make the varsity team. He possessed an unerring eye and when "Joe" was in there, the play was fast.

HENRION

Every high school player is not able to boast of a personal valet. Melvin Henrion serves in that capacity for our court team. He also sees that the equipment is in fine condition.

Row 1—George Carnes, Chester Kurdys, John Snider, Kenneth Foss, Nick Rapp, Joe Heyman, Nelson Volz.
Row 2—Marvin Markowitz, John Schmidt, Bob Pund, Homer Washburn, Franklin Starner, Merlin Willey.

Reserve Basket-ball Team

Our reserve team of this year, under the vigilant eye of Coach Harding, more than emphasized the value of giving under-classmen actual experience in the pastime upon the court. In mid-season many of the fellows were transferred to the varsity, and because of their connections with the reserves, were enabled to continue the fine brand of play that warranted their promotion. The part that the reserves play in the current season is to perform in a game preliminary to the feature contest. This year they met each of the other city teams in combat, and though they were not wholly successful in their schedule, the average of games placed in the winning column was high. They also engaged in several outside contests and more than upheld the athletic standard of our school.

Along with the remaining veterans of the varsity these fellows that compose the reserve squad show promise of giving Libbey an aggregation fully as capable as any before.

Track

If the present turnout to the summons for track candidates is any indication of ability, this year's team will bear watching in the coming meets. Although the material is of an inexperienced variety, there are enough veterans on the squad to bolster it into fine shape.

The members of the team have been provided with a systematic training routine, worked out by Coach Harry Rice, and this provides ample opportunity for the yearlings and those inexperienced, to develop properly.

In addition to the intra-city meets, several out-of-town engagements have been arranged. Among them are the Ohio Relays, the Defiance Meet, and probably the National meet at Chicago later in the season if the past performances warrant it. Among the luminaries of the team are Willey, speedy dash man, and Bailey, broad jumper. These fellows are seasoned performers and form the nucleus of the present aggregation of track performers.

Row 1—Vincent Rohloff, Perry Wilson, Robert Lipner, Harry Ridgeway, Martin Eager.

Row 2—Joe Lengyel, Wilbur Schroeder, Ted Meyers, Charles Sawyer, Duane Strickling, Thomas Maxwell.

Golf

This sport is still in its early stages, but is rapidly gaining popularity at Libbey.

The team of this year, had a great task before them, that of upholding our splendid record in past competition in the Intra-City League. In the three years of its existence, the team has "copped the bunting" twice, and came in second last year. The material available, at present, is of the same calibre as before, thus assuring us of a fine team.

A schedule has been arranged to include matches with each of the other high schools; thus every member of the "plus four" squad must work to his full capacity. They have chosen Captain Wilson to lead them and as this book is being printed, Coach Hauser's charges will have engaged in many of their initial matches.

Even though all of us are not enabled to see the team in action, we are "behind them to a man."

Baseball

The present baseball season is just in its early stages as this book goes to press. This sport, even though classed as one of the minor athletics, has gained rapid popularity here in Libbey. Under the direction of Coach Lawson the teams have always been of high calibre and the present aggregation shows even more promise.

The annual Intra-City League comprises the greater part of the schedule and as our team has always finished near the top the "national pastime" will undoubtedly occupy the spotlight during the coming weeks. A promising number of veterans are available this year, providing the nucleus for a very able "nine." Among them are listed, Rapparlle, Packard, Shepherd, Lewinski, Rhoades, and Shepler.

The aim of the athletic council is to bring more emphasis upon the sports of lesser importance at Libbey. As this endeavor is slowly realized, baseball will take a place among sports of major proportions.

1929—Won 7—Lost 2

Joseph Sieja, Nelles Metz, Robert Lasko, Marvin Edmunds, Richard Starn.

Tumbling

This small group of fellows meets in the gym every conference hour of the year and there Mr. Pohlman directs the development of our Tumbling Team. The training for this phase of athletics is no small task. The boys must practice diligently and continually; they also must take the bumps and knocks which come frequently in this art of contortion.

As the present team is in the formative stage, they have not been so active as in other years, but have appeared on several outside programs in addition to school performances.

Graduation will take Robert Lasko, one member, but Sieja, Metz, Starn, and Edmunds will return, and Coach Pohlman believes they are adequate material to form another fine team.

DR. R. C. YOUNG

Medical Advisers

Visualizing a sport, such as football, so filled with colliding bodies, flying feet, and hard falls, one sees a mass of broken bones and takes injury as the general thing. Through the efficient work of Dr. R. C. Young, and Dr. R. D. Ladd, the injured players are treated dexterously. These doctors are in constant contact with the players and do their utmost to keep each of them physically fit. They are present in the dressing room before each game, caring for the team in every manner possible and are not above giving a word of encouragement where they deem it needful.

Dr. Young is an ardent Libbey follower, and under his professional direction, the colds and other physical defects which tend to hamper the effectiveness of our players are remedied.

Dr. Ladd's ministrations have also become a Libbey institution. Those who compose the team know that at any time "Doc" will "take the kink out of that sore muscle or wrenched back" and they go to him feeling confident that he will help them.

We sincerely hope that our relations with these men may be continued and want them to know that they are appreciated.

Student Managers

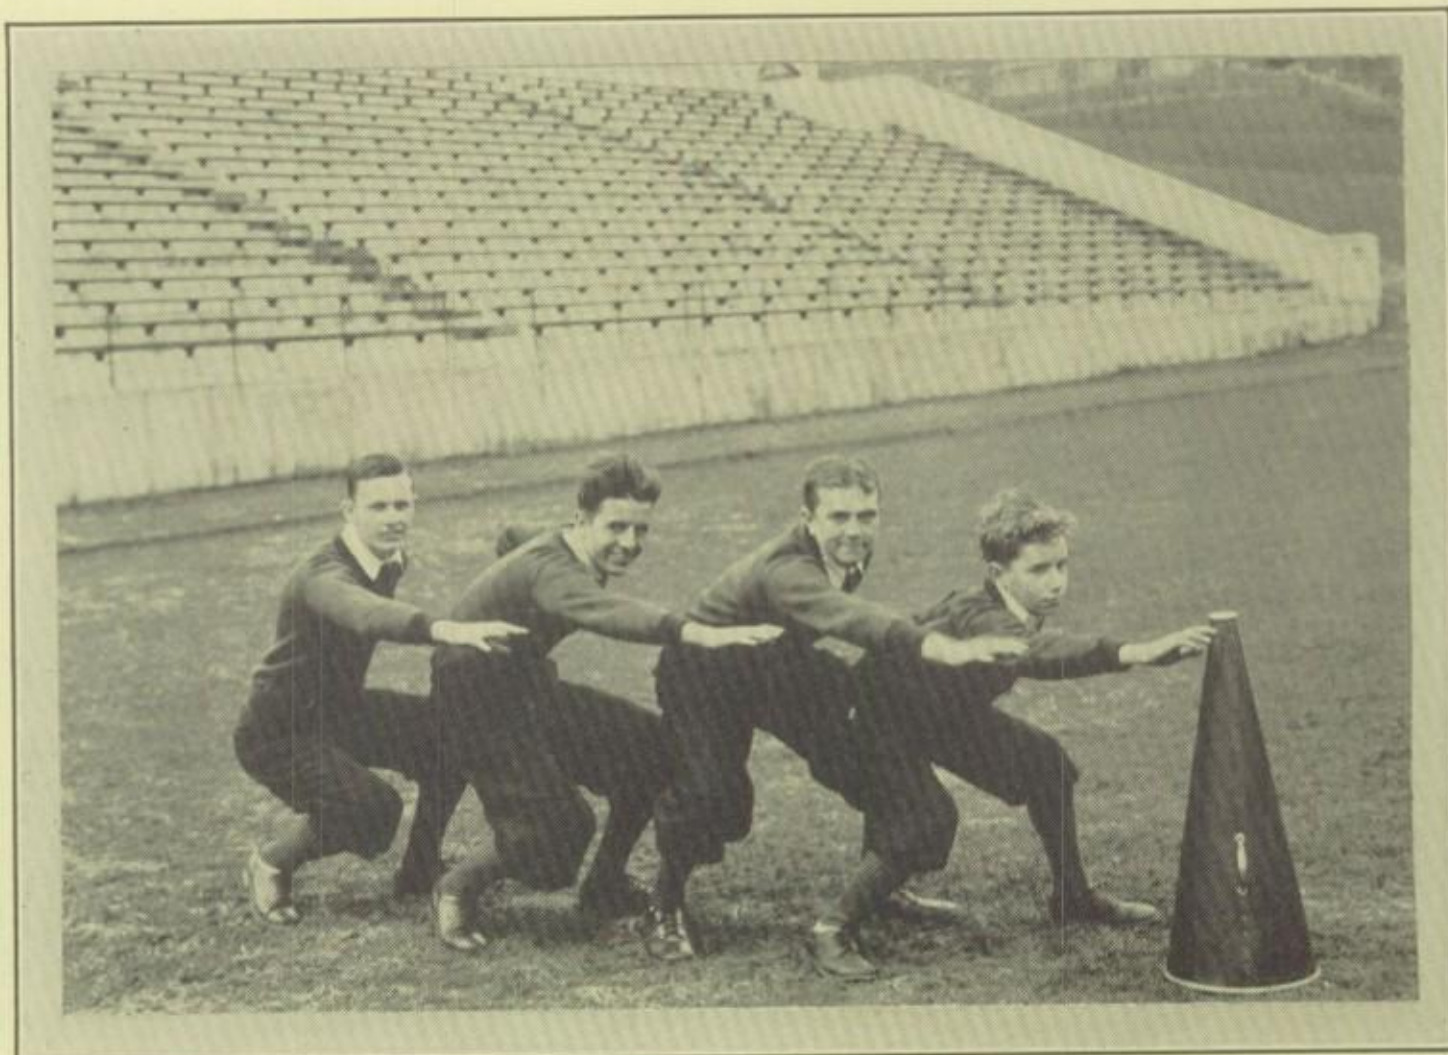

The phrase "to the victor belongs the spoils" does not hold true in the case of our student managers, for their voluntary work is unfortunately inclined to pass unacclaimed and unnoticed by the student body. We have without a doubt, the best group of "flunkies" in the city, and they are to be lauded highly for their work in the preceding season.

These fellows made possible the spectacle we witnessed each Saturday: the lime-streaked field, the goal post, proudly wrapped in the maize and blue, our "golden bantams" with their "natty" uniforms shining to perfection, and lastly, those big red balloons marking the last white line. The service rendered by these willing boys will become a part of football tradition.

During the basketball season, the duties of the managers are not so varied, but there are many small details which must be arranged. Melvin Henrion, assisted by "Red" Maeder, are responsible for these duties.

BOB NOONAN DICK BRAYTON HARMON PUNCHES ED WELLS

Cheer Leaders

The unusually large amount of vociferousness present at all our informal gatherings this fall was in a large measure due to our cheer-leaders: Richard Brayton, Harmon Punches, Bob Noonan, and little Edward Wells. Attired in costumes of the school colors, the boys presented a spectacle pleasing to the eye as they went through the intricate antics of cheer-leading. The value of their work in arousing the spirit and feeling of the student body is often underestimated. The bark of the "fight locomotive" ringing across the gridiron or in the auditorium inspires the warriors of Libbey with new spirit to carry on.

This is the last year we may see Dick and Harmon in action and their places will be hard to fill because they made themselves such a major part of our jolly bunch. However, Bob and Eddie will return and we are expecting them to assume the leadership and promote a greater school spirit than ever before.

PAUL BREMER

MR. SEEMAN

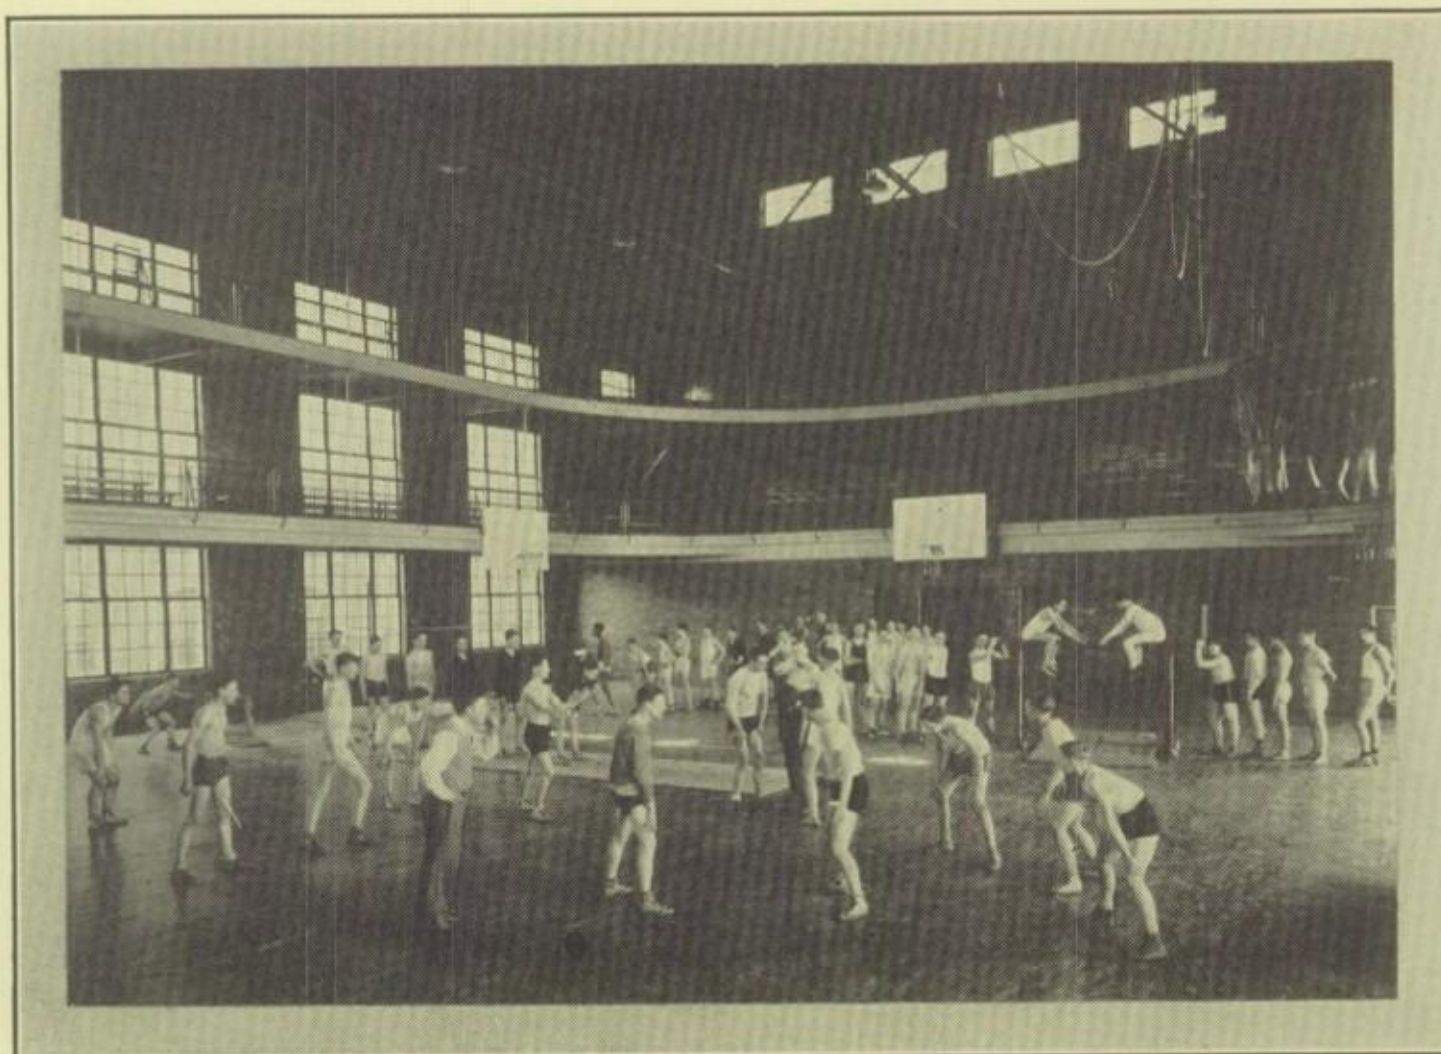

Equipment Managers

The fact that "your appearance counts against you" need never be listed as one of our worries as long as Mr. Weinstock has charge of the equipment down in the stadium. His part in the success of our football season is one of no little responsibility. All equipment worn by our players passes through his hands to be checked and accounted for at the conclusion of the season. The avoidance of injuries is also a part of "Cholly's" work, as no boy is sent out into scrimmage without the greatest precautions being taken against chance injury. The field must be relined for each contest; suits must be checked over minutely to prevent delay at game time.

He is assisted in this work by Paul Bremer who has spent three years as a student manager. Paul has the responsibility of attending to various details.

Our spacious grounds, including the stadium, are also in need of close attention. This work has been entrusted to Mr. Seeman, who has proved himself an interested, conscientious worker.

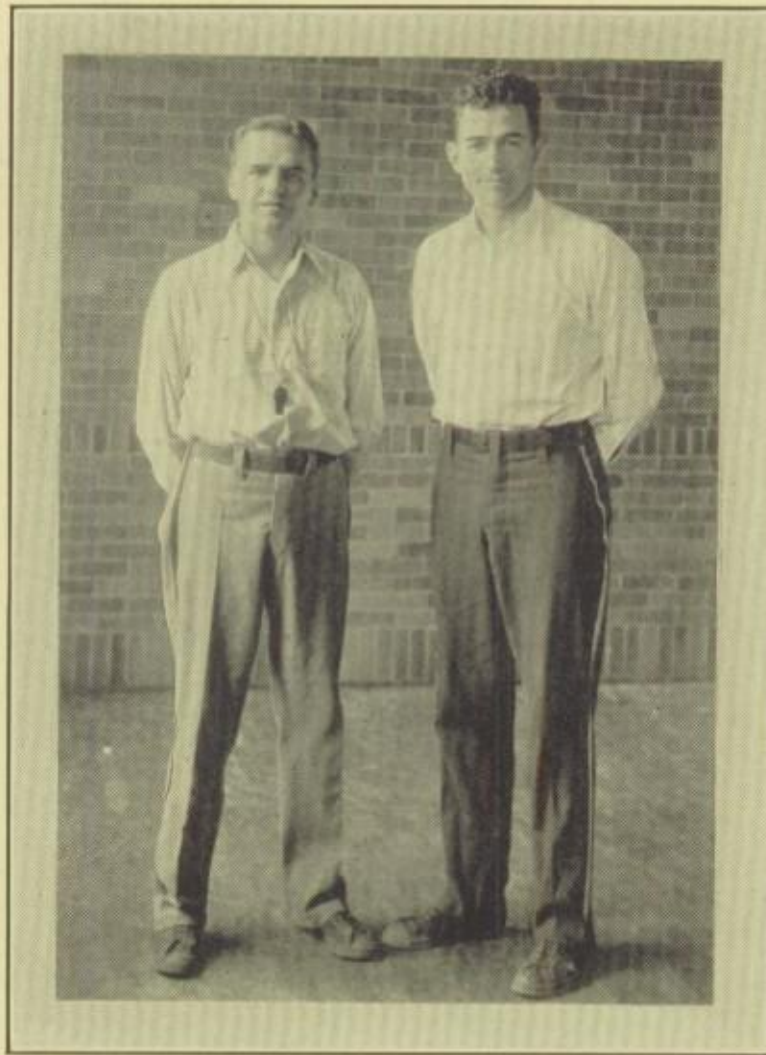

Boys' Gym

The boys' gymnastic activities which usually are found in their early high school years constitute a program of all-around development. To many students their gym days are the most enjoyable of all their curricular activities.

Classes are held twice weekly and the only defect is the scarcity of time given this subject. However, this is remedied by the provision of a special gym class which meets Friday of every week and is open to all those wishing to enjoy more gym work.

In the regular classes the time allotted is spent upon competitive tests such as chinning, rope climbing, running, basket-ball dribble, baseball throw; the individual performers in these tests are awarded points corresponding to the excellence of their work. At the end of the year the boy with the highest total of points is presented with a gold medal, thus he is twice rewarded. The boys' gym work is under the direction of Mr. Pohlman and Mr. Rice. Both are well acquainted with the details of their work. Mr. Pohlman has been affiliated with the school's gym work since its organization, and Mr. Rice has already assumed a position of high regard in the hearts of the student body.

MR. POHLMAN MR. RICE

They are efficient in their work; they are friendly and interested in us as individuals; and they have taught those with whom they have come in contact to play hard and fair, and, of greatest import, always to be men.

Girl's Gym

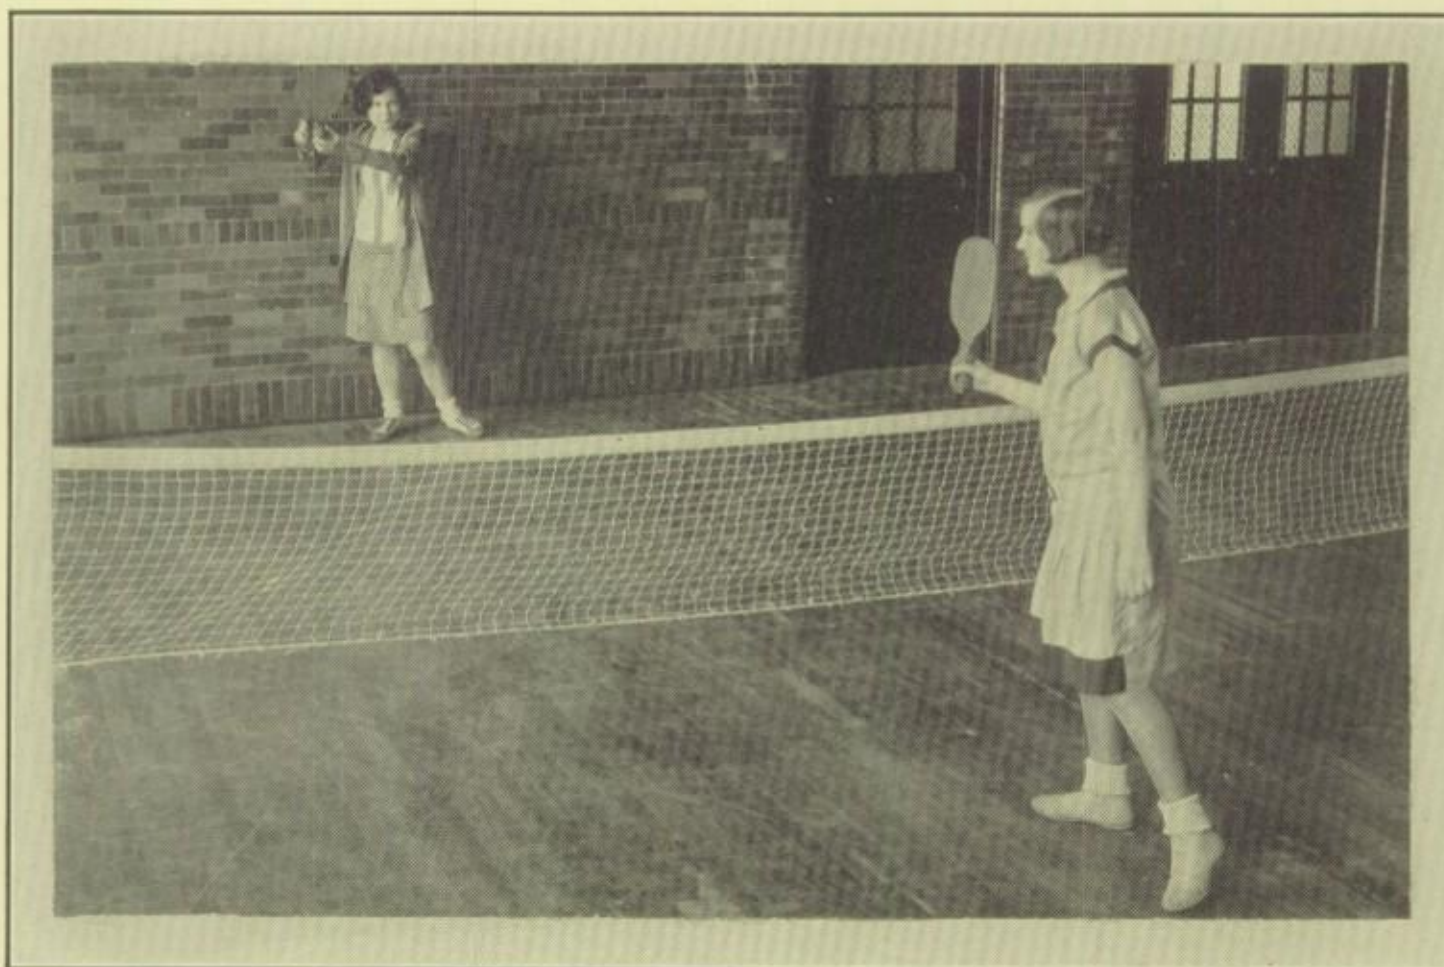

Gymnasium for girls is compulsory for the Freshmen and Sophomores, but Juniors and Seniors are welcomed to join the classes. The classes consist of from one hundred to one hundred forty students, each one willing and capable of doing her part.

The gym work is made very interesting by the instructors, Miss Mery and Miss Thompson, who have always tried to arrange a program that is enjoyable to all the girls.

Regular gym classes meet on Mondays and Wednesdays. During the first semester a tournament in volley-ball is held. To begin this tournament, a winning team is picked from each class. These are determined by means of a point system, each inter-class victory gaining one point for the victor. At a special meeting after school, the champion team is picked, by elimination. Each

Firelight

*A campfire glowing in scarlet red
 Against an evening sky—
 Hungry flames rising majestically
 Consuming twig upon twig.
 Hearts, happy and content,
 Around this vivid light—
 Indians, pathfinders, tenderfeet
 Prospectors, gathered—
 A brief reprieve from the stern
 Pursuits of Life's pathway.
 Laughing, singing, joking,
 Relating spicy tales of Adventure, incredulous, but Amusing.
 Embers, ashes, and charred twigs
 Remaining as a memorial
 To the recent radiant blaze,
 Off into the encircling,
 Outreaching solitude they depart
 These ones of varied interests,
 Group by group, bearing hopes
 Of success, and remembering
 Always—that campfire.*

WHAT ELECTRIC POWER IS DOING FOR YOU

Do you ever wonder what electric motors are doing for you? The answer is clear. They are weaving the fabric of a richer civilization—making new wealth, comfort, leisure, in which everybody shares.

For example, since 1914 the cost of raw materials used in the manufacture of motors and other electrical equipment has increased nearly 50%. But the use of 145% more electric current has so helped to increase production per worker that it has been possible to more than double the average wages of workers producing electric products. At the same time these products have only increased in price about 20%.

Scores of other industries can show equally amazing gains as a result of the increased use of electric power.

Electricity betters the quality of a product, raises the wage of workmen who produce the product, and makes for low prices to the consumer.

SENIORS!

We hope you are pleased with your class ring which was furnished by us last fall.

Some day you will be looking for another ring--the most important thing you will ever buy--and we hope that we may then have another opportunity of serving you. Our years of experience and our reputation for giving the utmost in value and style will insure the wisdom of your choice.

On other important occasions remember that we are specialists in the selection of appropriate gifts.

Select your jeweler as you would your doctor--for knowledge and reliability and his personal interest in you.

Thelma F.—(Singing sweetly) "And for Bonnie Annie Laurie, I'd lay me down and die."

Listener—"Is Miss Laurie in the audience?"

He—"Well, what dy'a know about that! So Ethel was married last week?"

She—"Who was the lucky guy?"

He—"Her old man."

Ned S.—"You weren't at school today, were you?"

Harold T.—"No, I slept in my own room today."

Joe—"Would you marry an idiot for the sake of his money?"

Ginney—"Oh, this is so sudden!"

Would-Be-Suicide—"Don't rescue me. I want to die."

Maynard G.—"Well, you'll have to postpone it. I want a life-saving medal."

Clerk—"This license entitles you to one deer and no more."

Leroy S.—"I want a hunting license, not a marriage license."

Julia W.—"Is my face dirty, or is it my imagination?"

G. Marquardt—"Your face isn't; I don't know about your imagination."

S. Dill—"Did you know that I can read a person's mind?"

Betty—"Oh, won't you read mine?"

Scott—"Sorry, I left my magnifying glass at home."

A. Tallman—"You may not believe it, but I said "No" to seven different men this summer."

Gladine W.—"Oh, I don't doubt it. What were they selling?"

It isn't official or anything, but we understand that Paul Wirick is making big money in his spare time by posing for the "coming shadow" in cigarette ads.

Gas is the Best Fuel

Gas is the only fuel ready to make HEAT. All other fuels must be changed to gas by burning before they can make heat. Then, it is only the gas that produces the heat.

Burning solid fuel for home heat causes the loss of many valuable base chemicals. This loss is seen in the ash and smoke. How much better to use gas and conserve these valuable chemicals as nature intended they should be conserved.
